'Operational issues' cause concern at Barry takeaway

'Late pay is frustrating!' – STAFF COMPLAIN

by GEM REPORTER

STAFF at Pizza Hut Delivery in Barry have complained they face the frustration of being paid late.

The franchise business arrived in Thompson Street in September and staff work late into the evening taking orders and delivering them locally.

The company told The GEM it had faced operational issues and stressed that it was sorry for the inconvenience caused to the staff.

Staff contracts stated that they should get paid on the last working day of the month, but on a number of occasions employees have had to wait up to seven or eight days for wages to go into their bank accounts.

The GEM spoke to two members of staff.

One said: "In October I expected to get paid on the last day of the month, but it was four days late and the same thing happened to other people.

"Wages have been up to eight days late. It is very frustrating for the staff. It has meant some people couldn't go out and do a grocery shop. Obviously, you feel worse for the people who have kids.

"There was even an instance where one of the managers loaned a member of staff money.

"It is really upsetting – when you don't get paid on time, you feel as if you're working for nothing."

Another member of staff said: "There is definitely a lot of anger. The managers feel helpless."

Some members of staff don't live in Barry which means they are paying for petrol to travel to work, only to have the added frustration of late pay.

ADULT LEARNERS OFF TO FLYING START!

Barry's adult learners receive their certificates.

ADULT learners in Barry have been celebrating the end of their chosen courses.

The Flying Start family centre hosted the celebrations in partnership with Palmerston adult learning centre and learners were on hand to celebrate their achievements in a wide range of courses, including cooking, jewellery making, papercrafts, managing stress, counselling, and improving confidence.

They were presented with certificates for completing their courses and proudly displayed a selection of their work for the invited guests.

Flying Start's parent support team manager, Joanna Card, said: "It was so lovely to see such a great turnout of Flying Start parents to celebrate their hard work, commitment and achievements on the various courses that they undertook last year.

"I hope it encourages more adults to learn new skills, with one of our courses in the future."

For more information about adult learning courses in the Vale of Glamorgan, visit www.valeofglamorgan.gov.uk.

A KEY YEAR IN HISTORY OF BARRY ISLAND?

2016 may one day be seen as the key 'resort-changing' year in the history of Barry Island. New attractions and transport links are close to being finished. (SEE MORE ON PAGE).

STOP PRESS

TOLL charges at the Severn Bridge are to be halved after the Budget.

However, the changes will not come in until 2018. Vale MP Alun Cairns said that the cut would be much bigger for small trade vans, from £13.20 down to around £3.

Tributes paid to former mayor

Emlyn was 'Barry's strongest champion'

EMLYN WILLIAMS, a respected former Vale and town councillor and mayor, who was due to receive the MBE at Windsor Castle on July 12, has passed away.

In a tribute, local MP Alun Cairns described him as "a true servant of the community".

Mr Williams served as Vale Mayor in 2004-2005 and again in 2009-10.

Vale may 'twin' with area in Haiti or Africa

OVER 200,000 people lost their lives and over 1,200,000 people were rendered homeless after the earthquake that devastated Haiti in 2010.

Haiti Hospital Appeal was built out of this catastrophe – a charity that was initiated by two British drama students.

Haiti is the poorest country in the western hemisphere. Many Haitians sadly do not have access to adequate healthcare, meaning many die unnecessarily when basic treatment could have saved them.

This is particularly the case with childbirth in Haiti, having the highest rate of infant mortality in the western hemisphere.

To counter this great tragedy, Haiti Hospital Appeal has to date built a hospital, which includes a spinal care unit, and an all-purpose sports centre equipped with state-of-the-art equipment.

The money raised from this campaign is donated entirely to Haiti Hospital Appeal.

This year, Barry Male Voice Choir will once again hold a concert at Holy Trinity Presbyterian Church at 7.30pm on Thursday, April 21.

Grace Hartley, an up-and-coming singer/guitarist, will also augment the show with a 20-minute slot.

Tickets (£5) are available from me on 01446 749727, or from the church hall.

Jane Hutt AM is to raise the question of twinning the Vale of Glamorgan with an area in either Haiti or Africa. German cities have twinned with those residing in equatorial Africa for several years.

This is to be highly commended, as these people live in poverty that many of us cannot begin to understand.

Later this year, Ms Hutt has volunteered to hold a coffee morning and continues to be an inspiration to this campaign.

I'd also like to pay tribute to patrons Raymond and Michelle Smith for their support.

Godfrey Knight, Barry.

Observatory: some more questions

THANK you very much for printing my recent letter requesting information on the Barry Astronomical Society observatory.

Several people contacted me and as a result we now know the general location of the observatory, and indeed, I was able to see one gate that is still standing that once led to the observatory.

We also know that although the society seems to have finished around 1923, the observatory stood, complete with its telescope until after the Second World War. The site was used by the military during the war.

Questions still needing answers include, if it stood well into the 1950s, do you remember it?

Did you visit it? Were you in school at this time and did you see or hear about a large telescope?

In particular, were you a pupil or teacher at the Glamorgan teacher training college?

Best place to live in Wales – but for how long?

THE Sunday Times recently published its interpretation of the 10 best places to live in Wales; while recognising the potential risk of subjectivity behind its analysis, the publication is likely to stimulate some interesting discussion regarding the way in which housing should be developed in the Vale of Glamorgan.

The Vale was one of only two Welsh counties to have two locations in the Top Ten, namely, Penarth and Colwinston. The inclusion of the Victorian seaside town of Penarth will come as little surprise, given the splendour of its architecture, its wide range of services and facilities, and its thriving town centre.

By contrast, Colwinston has few traditional 'facilities' – although it does have a great pub – and its attraction is probably known to few people outside of the local community.

So why should Colwinston be singled out, when there are so many other towns and villages in the Vale (and elsewhere in Wales) who could legitimately lay claim to inclusion?

There is no simple answer to that question. What I do know is that Colwinston is a small, attractive, historic village of just over 100 dwellings which are perfectly set within the lush, rolling farmland of the Vale.

The village has developed slowly over time, with great care being taken to build upon the unique characteristics of its location, to preserve the surrounding countryside and open spaces, and to involve and bring together the varied backgrounds of the local community to generate a spirit and quality of life that is difficult to match.

Sadly, this situation might not last for much longer. The council's decision to allow a developer to build a new housing estate of 64 properties on agricultural land surrounding the village's primary school is likely to change the character and feel of the village forever.

I fear that the obsessive determination of the council to urbanise western Vale villages, to ride roughshod over the wishes of local residents, and to build on greenfield – rather than available brownfield sites – carries significant risks for the future, in relation to the way the Vale is seen by the outside world as a place to live, work and enjoy.

Unless there is a fundamental rethink of the council's approach to the building of much-needed new housing, involving the genuine and meaningful engagement of local communities, we may find that this is the last time a Vale village receives a 'Best place to Live' accolade.

I sincerely hope I am wrong.

Paul Griffiths, Colwinston.,

'Port Road is one big mess'

I HAVE to agree with the comments in last week's GEM, regarding the Port Road 'design' at Barry.

Both Mr Cousins and Mrs Coppins have valid complaints – it is just one big mess and really why the need for such a wide footpath?

You could still get cyclists and pedestrians on half the width!

It's wasted money by the council yet again and roads left full of potholes!

As for the stupid bus lane, not that many buses use the road, so why?

Wouldn't it be better to have the lane as a dedicated left turn for vehicles during the rush hours?

I'm sure that would ease the congestion that happens every morning.

Mrs Treena Howe,
St Athan.

Rare bus spotted

THIS morning I saw a bus using the bus lane on the Port Road roundabout.

Is this a record?

Bramble Coppins, Barry.

'GIVE WOMEN FULL CREDIT'

I WAS really bemused to see the article in your newspaper on whether Barry's Mayor should attend events in an official capacity as I believed that this was resolved 10 years ago.

I have a view that in Barry we do not recognise what women have achieved in the town.

International Women's Day is meant to reflect this, and we have many women who have excelled. To name a few: Grace Williams, Elizabeth Hughes, Dorothy Rees, Amy Evans, Carys Howe, Mary Lennox, Margeret Alexander, Julia Gillard – and many more, as Tom Clemett's articles can show.

Why can't the town of Barry celebrate International Women's Day properly? We have many who can organise a function to celebrate women's achievements.

So come on, Barry, let's make it a day to remember, but in the name of equality, invite the men!

Theo Stenstrom, Barry.

'Help save the forests'

I WOULD like to ask readers to help save one of the UK's most endangered forests and its rare wildlife by supporting Trees for Life in an easy and free online vote before March 22.

Our Rewilding the Highlands project has been shortlisted for the prestigious European Outdoor Conservation Association's funding awards, with more than £22,000 at stake.

Winning the online vote would allow us to expand our pioneering work to restore the Caledonian Forest in the Highlands – including by planting 50,000 trees, establishing habitats for wildlife such as red squirrels, black grouse and Scottish wildcats, and creating conservation opportunities for many people.

Please make a difference and vote at www.treesforlife.org.uk/voteTFL.

Alan Watson Featherstone,
Founder, Trees for Life, Moray.

'Am I a voice in the wilderness?'

AM I a voice in the wilderness? Am I the only person who is totally fed up with the number of unsolicited 'phone calls I receive on a daily basis, commencing at 8.25am (interrupting my breakfast) and the last call I received that day was 9.30pm, regarding my entitlement to PPI.

A recent enquiry was asking "Did I want my oven cleaned in a very competitive opening price offer?"

I mentioned I was registered with the Telephone Preference Service and suggested they should not be calling me; the caller had never even heard of Telephone Preference Service, this would seem to make the TPS totally ineffective.

Some time ago, I asked our MP to look into the issue of unwanted invasion into my privacy.

I was assured the matter would be 'looked into' and I would be contacted.

Sad to say, I'm still waiting for a response.

I am aware I can purchase a 'call blocking system': my response to this – why should I? I resent an intrusion into my time, being interrupted by people offering services I do not require.

Thank you for allowing me to express my feelings.

Changing the subject, I really do look forward to The GEM. Thank you all for a very good informative paper.

(Name and address supplied.)

'This rapid response qualifies as fourth emergency service!'

I WISH to reply to the Vale Council's statement with regard to parking tickets and appeals.

Is the spokesman really saying that after my letter was received by the appeal office in north Wales on Monday that they contacted the Vale, who then considered the grounds of appeal, possibly visited the street in question, and then replied to the query from north Wales, all in time for me to receive a letter declining my appeal on Thursday morning?

If this is the normal speed at which the Vale Council and the appeals office respond to correspondence, it must be the first time that two local authority departments have dealt with something this quickly; and perhaps they should be considered as the fourth emergency service, not the AA!

Mark Bell, Barry.

2016 MOMENTOUS 'SEA-CHANGE YEAR' IN THE FORTUNES OF BARRY ISLAND?

The 'super crane' at Barry Island has been working over-time to construct the new 'Barry Eye'.

Image by MIKE WILCOCK

Soon the Waterfront and the Island will be linked up.

BARRY ISLAND will see some major changes in the next few weeks.

As you can see from Mike Wilcock's image of the second road to the Island, there isn't a great deal of distance to go until it meets up with the road network on the Island. Work is scheduled to be finished in July.

Meanwhile, at the Pleasure Park work on new attractions continues apace, including the new Barry Eye.

This summer will be one of the most momentous in Barry Island's history, boasting improved road links and a truly 21st century Pleasure Park.

With increased exposure in the media – both in Wales and England – over the next few months, local traders have every reason to be optimstic that 2016 really will herald a permanent sea-change in the Island's economic fortunes.

Coun Lis Burnett, of the Vale Council, said years of hard work were reaping rewards.

"Over the last four years, the council has, through a multi-million pound renovation, transformed the Barry Island resort into one that can once again attract visitors from across the UK."

Vale MP Alun Cairns said: "The new Barry Eye is yet another fantastic addition to Barry Island and is symbolic of the regeneration that continues. They say a showman should always under-promise, and over-deliver – that is exactly what Henry Danter and his family have done over the past 12 months."

Vale council tax rise is confirmed – 'SCANDALOUS' SAY TORIES

AN increase in council tax for the Vale of Glamorgan of 3.9 per cent was agreed at a meeting of the full council last Thursday, March 10.

Coun Neil Moore, the Leader of the Vale Council, said: "As the cuts imposed by central government continue to bite deeper into council budgets, the task of balancing the need to protect the most important of our services and to limit the increase in council tax becomes ever more difficult.

"To cover the cost of this year's £3.3m cut in Welsh Government funding alone would have required an increase in council tax of 5.5 per cent. On top of this a combination of increased demand, increasing legislative requirements, and cost pressures has caused the cost of delivering our services to have risen by over £8m.

"Despite these unprecedented challenges, and due in large part to the £9.2m of savings we will achieve by redesigning our services to be more cost efficient, the council will next year be providing an extra £1.6m to the Vale's schools and an extra £2.2m to provide care and support to the most vulnerable groups in our society through social services.

"All of this will be achieved despite the council operating with a reduced budget and while still keeping the council tax for the Vale of Glamorgan below the Welsh average, and limiting the increase to the average band D home to less than £1 per week."

Coun Moore's reasoning did not impress the Leader of the Welsh Conservatives, Andrew RT Davies, who said: "This is yet another hammer blow to hardworking taxpayers across the Vale who continue to get a raw deal; plain and simple.

"Year after year, English householders have benefited from a Conservative freeze, yet here, the Labour Government snubs taxpayers and stands back while bills rocket.

"Since 1999, council tax under Labour in Wales has risen by 121 per cent which is frankly scandalous.

"Not only would a council tax freeze be a huge boost to the local economy, we believe money should be put back into the pockets of the people who know best how to spend it – hardworking Vale taxpayers themselves.

"On May 5, you'll have the chance to do such that by voting for change in Cardiff Bay."

Delays as people head for beaches

Nose to tail on Park Avenue, Barry.

THERE were traffic delays through Barry on Sunday, March 13, as people headed to the beaches in the area.

Some local politicians criticised the Vale Council's road management, but Coun Lis Burnett emphasised road, pedestrian and cycle links were all being improved, some ahead of schedule and that public figures shouldn't talk the town down.

MP Alun Cairns said: "Traffic problems overseen by the Vale Council must be sorted as a matter of urgency.

"The summer of 2016 has the potential to be the busiest in decades. For the first time since the 1970s, all the commercial premises have been let which is a superb indication of the revival of Barry Island.

"The Vale Council cannot continue to act as a drag on the growing prosperity thanks to the enormous amount of private investment and ambition shown by entrepreneurs like Henry Danter."

Plaid Cymru Assembly candidate for the Vale, Coun Ian Johnson, said Coun Shirley Hodges had contacted the Vale Council on Sunday about the traffic problems and was informed that the work was being carried out by Welsh Water and would be completed by the Easter weekend.

"We are obviously very concerned that this work on the Causeway will not be completed in time, cause further delays for holiday-makers visiting Barry Island and create bad headlines at a time when we should be promoting the Island and its excellent facilities."

Coun Lis Burnett, Vale cabinet member for regeneration, said: "For Alun Cairns to claim that the Vale Council is doing anything other than driving the regeneration of the whole town, including Barry Island, would be laughable, were it not for the damage that it is doing to the town.*

"His hollow rhetoric is embarrassing and is what gives politicians a bad name."

She said millions had been invested in creating a resort that was bringing visitors from across the UK.

"We have worked with Welsh Government funding to deliver a multi-million pound regeneration of the promenade. This did not involve Mr Cairns or anyone else from the Westminster Government.

"Improving access to the Island has always been recognised as the next piece in the puzzle. This is why we worked so hard, again in partnership with Welsh Government to bring the construction of the new link road forward by several years, established a park and ride system, upgraded the existing road layout, and are now improving pedestrian and cycle access.

"Interest in Barry Island is greater than ever. It is not a result of Mr Cairns' selfies on the log flume either.

"Quite what we should expect from a politician who seems to spend the majority of time at the funfair I'm not sure, but his repeated attempts to run down not just the Barry Island resort but the town as a whole do a great disservice to the community he is paid public money to serve," she added.

Cogan pupils form a bond with police dog Jess!

PUPILS at Penarth's Cogan Primary School have helped the South Wales force to train one of their police dogs.

Following a successful charity project to raise money to sponsor animals with the World Wildlife Fund last year, they were "excited" about the prospect of sponsoring an animal a little closer to home.

They reported that they had come up with the idea of sponsoring the training of a police dog. When they contacted the police to see if it was possible, they received an "enthusiastic response".

Cogan Primary is the first school to sponsor the training of a dog with South Wales Police, and has now been partnered with PC Russ Jones and Jess. Jess had been due to start bomb detection training and the sponsorship request came at the right time.

Jess has visited the school to show how her training is progressing, by competing with pupils in a search and find competition, in which they raced to find as many items as they could in two minutes.

Headteacher Susan Sibert said: "The sponsoring of Jess has demonstrated child-led learning at its best, involving all our school community in a worthwhile venture. The children's learning has been enhanced using a real life situation; the project has allowed them to use their literacy and numeracy skills to plan and solve problems.

"We are proud to be leading the way in starting and piloting a new sponsorship idea that will support our police officers in our community and beyond. We hope that our experience will inspire other schools to sponsor a police dog or a police horse in the future."

Dog handler, PC Russ Jones, said: "It was great to be approached by the school – their timing was perfect as we had just taken on Jess who had not even started any training. It was an opportunity for the school to get involved at an exciting time, right at the start of her policing career.

"I'd like to say a big thank you to all the children, teachers, and parents at the school, who have all worked so hard to raise money for her training. She's progressing really well, so come April, I'll take great pride in taking her back to see the children as a fully qualified explosives detection dog."

The school has now raised in excess of £400 to sponsor Jess through her training. Pupils' fundraising ideas have included a cake sale, Christmas jumper day and a forthcoming race with Jess!

Year-3 with Russ Jones and Jess.

Horse riders asked to 'take care' on Dinas Common

HORSE riders in Dinas Powys have been asked to take care when using the village common especially where children are playing.

The plea comes from Dinas Powys Community Council and follows complaints from residents.

Coun Chris Franks, chair of the commons committee, said the community council is concerned that there is the threat of an accident if riders do not act responsibly.

He explained: "A resident has informed us that horse riders have been jumping their horses over the lower logs on the children's play equipment located on Dinas Powys common. There are signs of horses' hoofprints by the equipment.

"This area is used by children of all ages, and with the better weather more children will be using the play equipment after school and at weekends.

"We have advised the police of the situation who are assisting. They are to visit the local riding schools making horseriding pupils aware that they can only ride their horses around the perimeter of Dinas Powys common.

"The common is for the enjoyment of all and we need to ensure that people treat the area with respect."

'Team Jeff' get grubby as they tackle 'The Invincible' in memory of Tanya

Tanya Floyd with her three children Joseff, Elis and Finley.

by PHILIP IRWIN

FAMILY members who are raising money as a personal memorial to Tanya Floyd, the Cowbridge teacher who died suddenly last year, have just tackled their toughest test.

Tanya's husband, Mark, her two brothers, Paul and John, and her brother-in-law, Paul, took part in the '10K Invincible Run' in Margam Park recently, and as these photos by Glyn Evans show, it was no stroll in the sunshine.

The run includes a series of obstacles, many of them very muddy indeed, and the group, running under the team name of 'Team Jeff' made it around the 10K test and crossed the line together.

Tanya died suddenly last October, and two communities were devastated. She taught at Undy Primary School in Caldicot, but also spent time at Y Bont Faen Primary in Cowbridge, supporting the school that her three sons attended.

Tanya's father, Peter Clinton, told The GEM: "They came up with the name 'Team Jeff' for her three sons, Joseff, Elis and Finley Floyd.

"The team shirts were supplied by Y Bont, the children's centre in Bridgend, a charity that Tanya had raised money for."

Now, the fundraising team have two causes in their sights – Y Bont, and also to support the fundraising efforts of Y Bont Faen Primary, where it is planned to install a running track in Tanya's memory.

The school recently received a grant from Tesco, and further fundraising is planned.

Peter Clinton said: "Team Jeff finished the Invincible Run in about 90 minutes. One or two of the team found it really tough but they stayed together to get round.

"Tanya's boys found it hilarious, watching their Dad and his friends getting tired and muddy.

"I'm thrilled to say that they have raised £3,065 so far for Y Bont."

Mr Clinton added that Team Jeff will be out again on July 2, taking part in the Pembrey Invincible.

Also, later in the year it is the 'Pretty Muddy' a similar run for women, and one that Tanya took part in last year.

Female friends and family will be getting just as muddy.

Peter Clinton added: "There should be plenty of runners representing 'Team Jeff' in that event, and some of the women have never lined up for anything like it before."

Total fundraising since Tanya's tragic death has now passed £14,000. Donations can be made at the following link: www.justgiving.com/teams/tanyafloyd

VILLAGE GREEN BACK BY MAY

Victory for Little Hill residents

by GEM REPORTER

THE residents of Brock Street in old Cadoxton are toasting victory in their campaign to have a temporary council depot removed from the local green.

Resident Lynette Knight told The GEM: "The Cadoxton Conservation Group are delighted to announce that the council have agreed to move the compound that was set up on Little Hill, in the conservation area of Cadoxton, to a more suitable place and reinstate the village green by the end of April.

"We would like to say a big thank you to Tim and the Glamorgan GEM for publicising the issue. We would also like to say a big thank you to the residents of Barry and the councillors of Cadoc Ward who supported our campaign. It is so appreciated."

Residents had approached local councillors Neil Moore, Anne Moore and Fred Johnson asking them to look into the matter.

The Vale Council explained to residents that it would take a few weeks to re-locate the depot, and officers apologised for the inconvenience it had caused.

It had been originally set up as a base to carry out flood prevention work elsewhere in the town.

CONCERN AT DELAYS IN WAGES BEING PAID

Pizza Hut Delivery in Thompson Street.

Members of staff have often been paid late on different days so not all staff believe they have been treated equally.

But what will surprise people is that up until December all staff were paying a fee (£2 for normal employees, £6 for managers) for the administration of their wages.

The second member of staff said: "As most staff are on a minimum wage this was unlawful as it actually reduced the rate of pay below the minimum wage."

Staff say that when this was raised with the company, the practice stopped and staff are now awaiting refunds. They added the matter was reported to HMRC who are looking into the deductions.

Staff said the franchisee told them late payments were due to technical difficulties at the bank. They claim other outlets in south Wales have suffered similar problems.

Darron Keinzley of DJK Pizza Ltd explained: "Recently DJK Pizza Ltd experienced some operational issues which impacted payroll.

"Team members have since been paid and we are working with HMRC to check that all staff have received their full pay entitlement. We are very sorry for any inconvenience caused."

Public asked for views on Post Office closure plan

THE Post Office has announced a 12-week public consultation on its plans to close the branch in Holton Road, Barry.

Roger Gale, Post Office's general manager of the Crown network, said: "We have carefully assessed our provision in the area and, with five other Post Office branches nearby, we are confident we can continue to provide customers with good access to our services.

"We are acting to ensure that our network is sustainable into the future. Regrettably, in some locations, Crown branches are loss-making and we cannot look to the taxpayer to subsidise these.

"The Barry area is well served by other branches, with King Square just over half a mile from Holton Road and a further four Post Office branches within two miles.

"Every effort will be made to redeploy our Holton Road branch staff, if possible, and they will be fully supported through this change."

Public consultation on the closure proposal started on March 16 and ends on June 8.

Evenlode Primary School's fundraiser for the Velindre Chick Knit appeal

THE children at Evenlode Primary School were so egg-cited last week that they raised an egg-straordinary £850 (so far) for the Velindre Chick Knit appeal!

The appeal has historically used local schools in Cardiff and the surrounding areas, to sell its, now infamous, knitted chicks in order to raise funds for cancer research at the local Cardiff-based hospital.

The appeal has been running for 20 years now after its founder, Julie Smith, had the idea to get volunteers to knit chicks and fill them with Easter eggs to sell as a fundraiser.

This year Mrs Wakely, a school LSA who runs knitting club, organised the event and was surprised to see the number of chicks double this year to almost 1,000. She has several knitters and decorators to help all year long to build up the stocks, and this year children were putting in requests for specialist designer animals including cats, dogs, hedgehogs, fish and even parrots!

Some of them even turned into little monsters – the chicks not the children! We have now nearly sold out.

Hopefully, after introducing a meagre price increase to £1.50 this year, we should be able to donate this money and a further £600 to the Velindre Cancer Research Appeal. Eggs-cellent news!

Thanks to all those who have created these works of art, and to those that have purchased them!

TRIBUTES ARE PAID TO FORMER MAYOR EMLYN

Mr Cairns said: " No-one worked harder than Em did. He was a hero to so many people. His network was built up through service and he introduced me to so many key influencers in Barry.

"Few towns benefit from such a strong champion. We have been very fortunate to have known him and benefited from his work.

"He was a committed politician and even when he couldn't walk because of failing health, he would still turn up to canvass on the weekend – in his car!"

Mr Cairns added: "My deepest sympathy goes to his wife Joan, son Mark, and family. They have lost a husband, father and grandfather. We have lost Barry's strongest champion."

Former Barry Mayor Theo Stenstrom was a close friend and had visited him in hospital.

He told The GEM: "Although I was Labour and he was Conservative, politics didn't come into it with Emlyn.

"He asked to have a chat with me once about a constituency matter and we were good friends from that day onwards."

Mr Cairns will be working with the Williams family to see if a family member can go to Windsor Castle to receive Mr Williams' MBE, or whether the Lord Lieutenant of South Glamorgan could make a presentation to the family locally in the next few months.

Andrew RT Davies, Leader of the Welsh Conservatives, said: "I was extremely saddened to learn of the passing of Emlyn Williams MBE. Emlyn was a man of great standing in the community and was a great friend to so many. He was an outstanding ambassador for the town of Barry having served for 38 years as a councillor.

"Emlyn's award of an MBE in the Queen's New Year's Honours list was thoroughly deserved and there was not one person who deserved such an honour more."

Coun Neil Moore, Leader of the Vale Council, added his tribute: "Emlyn Williams was a long-serving and dedicated Vale councillor. He was a committed ward member who actively represented his constituents for many years. As Mayor of the Vale Council from 2004 to 2005 and again from 2009 to 2010 he undertook the role with enthusiasm and dignity. He was well known locally and will be sadly missed."

Mr Williams represented the Illtyd Ward. He was born in Llansamlet, near Swansea, and settled in Barry in 1953 after 10 years' service in the Royal Navy. He worked for Dow Corning, and its predecessors Allbright & Wilson and Midland Silicones as a shift manager, before retiring in 1985.

During his period of employment, he studied chemistry at Barry College and spent time at Dow's plant in Midland, Michigan.

He was elected a Barry town councillor in 1974 and, in 1979-80, he served as Mayor of Barry Town Council.

In 1977, he was elected to the former South Glamorgan County Council and also served on the former Vale of Glamorgan Borough Council before being elected to the Vale Council in 1999. He also served as a governor at Romilly Infants' School and Barry Comprehensive School.

School's under-13s are kitted out for future success!

THE Barry Comprehensive School's rugby under-13 sevens team will be tackling their packed fixture list in fine style, thanks to the generosity of Jamie Sylvester, Manager of macron Store Cardiff and David Alison, of New Broad Street Motors Barry.

Jamie supplied the stunning kit which New Broad Street Motors sponsored to help with the funding of the busy rugby schedule.

The team unveiled the kit at the Barry Invitational Sevens on the weekend where they reached the final of the 32 team tournament and will be wearing it at the Urdd Welsh National Sevens in Llanelli and at Rosslyn Park National Sevens in London the following week.

Coach Mr Manley said: "We are very grateful to Jamie and David, both successful local businessmen, for all of their support. It is a huge help and means our players look and feel the part. We are aiming to give all our teams the opportunity to compete against the elite rugby schools from all over the UK.

"The sevens tournaments offer a great experience for the players on and off the field and I believe that taking part allows the boys to grow not only as players but also as well rounded people."

Ace reviewer Rhys Powell.

Review of the Year shortlist

ON March 15, Barry Comprehensive pupil Rhys Powell attended the National Into Film Awards in Leicester Square, London.

Rhys wrote a review of 2001:Space Odyssey as part of our after-school 'Film Club' and has been shortlisted for Review of the Year.

This is an outstanding achievement; Into Film received around 5,000 reviews each week and Rhys has been shortlisted as top three in the UK! Ms McAllister who leads the Film Club at Barry Comprehensive School said: "I am very proud of Rhys' achievement, this is wonderful news! The boys who attend Film Club have really enjoyed engaging in lively, detailed discussions and review writing. Rhys has worked very hard and the recognition is well deserved."

The judging panel included specialists from the education and film industry, including Oscar-winning director Tom Hooper (Les Misérables, The King's Speech, The Danish Girl), Aardman Animations co-founder Peter Lord (Shaun the Sheep – The Movie, Chicken Run), actor Naomie Harris (Spectre, Skyfall, Mandela: Long Walk to Freedom) and director Amma Asante.

The Review of the Year category was due to be judged by film critic Danny Leigh and announced at the awards.

Mr McNamara, headteacher, commented: "Rhys has been a fantastic ambassador to the younger boys in the school; we wish him the best for the red carpet".

Three meetings in month for Barry Camera Club

FEBRUARY began with a visit to Barry Camera club by Graham Harries, proprietor of Gphotography Ltd, Llanelli, who spoke on event photography.

He showed work involving choral and theatrical subjects, but the majority of the images were of folk, jazz and pop concerts.

He explained the techniques he uses to gain his images, and highlighted problems in overcoming difficult surroundings.

On February 12 the branch visited Vale Camera Club at Ystradowen for our annual seven-way print battle. Each club entered four colour prints and four monochrome prints. The competition judge expressed pleasure at the overall quality on show.

The worthy winners were Rhondda Camera Club, giving all six remaining clubs something to think about for next year!

Our next visitor was Pete McCloskey, who gave a talk entitled 'A Personal Selection of Prints', starting off by showing black and white prints from the 'wet film' days of the early 1990s; then moving on to his later digital work in colour, black and white and infra-red.

Two new members were welcomed at the meeting.

The final meeting was, as always, our monthly competition and the guest judge, Susanna Saunders, gave measured and constructive criticism and praised the overall standard of the entries.

Best mono print scoring 20 points wasjudged to be Roy Carr's 'Clouds Over Back Tor'. Second place, also scoring 20 points, was Glenn Porter's 'Windsurfing The Storm' and third place was awarded to Roy Carr with his 'And The Sea Came In'. Highly commended in the monochrome print section were Brian Trego for 'Arriving Storm' and Glenn Porter for 'Skyscraper'.

Colour prints were equally tightly marked. Glenn Porter gained first place with 20 points for 'Pontsticill Reservoir' and also second place and 19 points for his 'Off The Lip'.

Andrew Hallum was awarded third place and 19 points for 'Proud Parent' and highly commended were Roy Carr for 'Saltwick Bay Dawn', Rob Owens for 'Boy Solider' and Barbara Archdale-Smith for 'Remains Of The Day', who were all awarded 18 points.

The projected images section as usual, attracted the largest entry and Susanna found it easier to separate the highest scorers in this section.

First place was won by Gareth Williams, who was awarded 20 points for 'Green Monochrome Gecko'; Tina Haydon gained second place and 19 points for 'Yo!' and third place with 18 points was awarded to Gareth Williams for 'Long Exposure Sunset'.

Just missing out on the placings was Malcolm Downes, who was awarded a highly commended and 18 points for his 'March Of The Snowmen'.

Next month's programme includes a visit from Martin Fry and Peter Young – with a 'silent auction' – and March will conclude with our monthly competition.

Barry Camera Club meets every Friday evening from 7pm to 9.30pm at St Francis Millennium Centre, Porth-y-Castell, Barry Garden Suburb, Barry, CF626NX. New members of all experience and skill levels welcome. For more information visit our website www.barrycameraclub.co.uk

The Air Ambulance gets £900 windfall at festive concert

Catrin Hall and Anne Hughes from the Wales Air Ambulance Service with BMVC chairman Gareth Roberts (on right) and treasurer Nick Meyrick.

BARRY Male Voice Choir's Christmas concert has become an important part of the town's festive scene when the choir, audience and RAF St Athan Voluntary Band combine to lift the spirits of all.

A total of £900 was raised for the choir's chosen charity Air Ambulance Wales, a vital service that depends on voluntary contributions.

Chairman Gareth Roberts said: "The choir is committed to supporting charities and voluntary organisations. It is pleased to receive the strong support from the community that has made this donation possible."

Half-term fun

BARRY'S Communities First group held a range of activities over the recent half term that got local children involved in fun and games.

As part of their Catch Up Club, a transition project that supports children and their family's progress from primary to secondary school, children spent a busy day being farmers and conservationists at the Amelia Trust Farm. They learned how to care for the farm's animals and built bird boxes and feeders to look after birds during the cold winter months.

A fairy and pirate family cinema day was held, in partnership with Parkside Christian Church and Vale Play Development. Many families enjoyed watching Tinker Bell and the Legend of the NeverBeast, before the children created pirate hats, fairy wands and colourful pictures.

For more information on the Catch up Club, Community Cinema and the other Barry Communities First projects, contact 01446 709432 or visit www.BarryCommunitiesFirst.org.

What's been happening in the hive?

WE are into March at the Fonmon apiary and, as expected, the current weather is holding back any external activity.

However, on Friday March 11, a sunny calm day with the temperature at 12◦c, external bee activity from all colonies was to be seen and pollen in abundance was very visible on many of the incoming bees.

This visible proof of winter survival is a pleasure to behold.

Throughout the winter months I have consistently inserted trays to the underside of various colonies in the apiaries, the number of mites that have been recorded as a result of these checks show that mild conditions have been very much to the fore.

Egg laying and the development of new bees is not the norm in an overwintering honeybee colony. The evidence that this has occurred has revealed itself because I am seeing Varroa mites that are dead adults (dark brown colour) and numerous dead pale coloured mites that have not reached maturity.

Why is this significant? Well, for the Varroa mite to reproduce it requires a cell containing an egg laid by a queen bee. This egg is a ready-made food source for the developing mites and the cell, once it has been sealed over (with a wax cap) is the ideal hatchery for the yet-to-be-reared mites.

In theory, once that egg has become a new bee and it chews through the wax cap and joins the throng in the hive, any mites should be ready to emerge as new breeding adults as well. This is not always the case, hence the pale mites (white) that I am observing.

To re-cap! Overwintering = no laying queen = no eggs and this equates to no new bees and, of course, no new mites. Any living mites will survive in the overwintering honeybee colony by consuming the bees' body fluids.

As we are aware, this winter's months have not been the norm, the bees have been active throughout as have the mites! Milder conditions will mean that an internal inspection can take place and I expect to find much in the way of eggs, larvae and sealed over cells containing ready-to-emerge bees.

Will that be the case? Watch this space!

FIRST (Ramblers') WALK IS THE STEEPEST!

LEADING her first walk for Penarth and District Ramblers on a lovely dry cool morning, Sue G and her nine companions set off across a molehill-splattered field and through meadows to the quiet village of Llandevaud with its daffodil-adorned common.

Crossing a series of stiles towards the derelict and abandoned fortified Tudor manor house of Pen-coed Castle, built in the 13th century by Sir Richard de la More, then refurbished by the Morgan family and later owned by Lord Rhondda, a muddy track and more fields led to a sunken lane for morning break.

Joining a road and deviating through the flat-bottomed, freshly-cropped valley below Coed Wen – where field ditches were running with excess water, after crossing stiles at Castle Farm where a great deal of ploughing was underway, a climb led up to the 13th century Penhow village church.

The original tower was completed in 1290, and the church was dedicated to the Abbot of St Mark in France until after the reformation, when the church was re-dedicated to St John the Baptist.

Sitting on the hilltop next to the church is the splendid Penhow Castle, originally granted to Sir Roger de St Maur, a surname which became anglicised to Seymour with its famous descendant, Jane Seymour, who became the third wife of King Henry VIII.

Descending Castle Lane past stables and crossing the busy A48, a rough but dry farm track led on below the disused Penhow quarry and two almost overgrown kilns, and with glorious views towards Parc Seymour the sun lit up the sky.

A climb on pathways still covered with autumnal leaves led through Castell-prin Wood, and descending through trees, yet another climb led into Wentwood or Coed Gwent. Originally a vast forest, it stretched between the Rivers Usk and Wye and contains ancient trees and is mostly managed by the Forestry Commission.

Exiting from the wood via steps to Yew Tree Cottage, a series of small meadows led back to the A48 and a welcome drink in the Foresters Oaks prior to the homeward journey.

Ramekin and Pepper lead on to Ysgryd Fawr

FIFTEEN walkers, led by Robin from Penarth and District Ramblers, together with dogs Pepper and Ramekin, set off on a fine winter morning to climb muddy pathways through the woods up onto the ridgeway of Ysgyryd Fawr, also known as Skirrid, the Holy Mountain or Sacred Hill.

Stopping for morning coffee with outstanding views towards the snow-capped Black Mountains and across the open countryside of Herefordshire they descended a grassy slope to cross numerous stiles and fields, including two bridges.

A short climb brought them into the small rural village of Llangattock Lingoed, which is situated just east of the River Trothy.

Upon their arrival, which was only a little later than planned, a visit to the delightful 13th century pub, the Hunters Moon, for pre-ordered lunch and relaxation – before a visit to the pretty white-washed village church dedicated to St Cadoc which dates to 1254.

The medieval cross in the churchyard, classified as an ancient monument, lost its shaft during the Reformation in the 16th century, but was a focal point for religious festivals, such as Palm Sunday and Corpus Christi.

Inside are highly-coloured stained glass windows, and the rood screen separated the clergy from the people, with Holy Communion being administered in strict social order with the gentry heading the orderly queue.

Originally, there were no pews to sit on until 1820 when 16 pews, each seating four people, were installed for the use of landowners and rich farmers, while children, labourers and paupers had to stand. By 1874, major repair work commenced with 21 new pews being fitted, along with new carpets, lights and a pipe organ. When modern refurbishment occurred in 2003, a life size wall painting, depicting St George standing over a slain dragon, was uncovered.

Robin explained his original return route was unwalkable in places, so safely reverting to pathways forming part of the long distance Offa's Dyke path that stretches from the Severn estuary to Prestatyn in north Wales, early spring lambs and proud mums reminded the group rather fittingly, it was the day before Mothering Sunday.

The final part of the route was along the Beacon's Way to the flank of Skirrid where muddy steps that had carried them uphill at the beginning led them precariously downhill back to their start.

On March 19, meet at 9am at Cogan Leisure Centre for an eight-mile moderate walk at Penderyn and a request from the leader: no dogs please; contact Clive on 029 2065 4156.

On March 20, a change to the programmed walk, meet 9am at Cogan for a nine-mile moderate/hard walk to Fan y Big; contact John R on 029 2070 8294.

To follow the group, log onto www.penarthramblers.wordpress.com or Facebook. Programmes and membership advice can be obtained from Pam on 029 2025 5102.

JOY STRANGWARD

'Planning should not be driven by developers'

THIS week I was interested to receive the information through my letter box which was produced by the Welsh Conservatives.

It referred to the possibility of Labour winning the May election and that Jane Hutt AM and her Welsh Government colleagues would force 10,000 new houses on the Vale, causing inappropriate building; and abolish the Vale Council and merge it with Cardiff.

I live in Colwinston to the western side of the Vale and actually back onto a new development of 63 houses which are currently being constructed by Redrow Homes. I did not object to the planning application.

Why? Because from my professional experience and involvement in the current Local Plan process, I considered such involvement to be a complete and utter waste of time.

In another borough, I saw evidence of the close relationship that can develop between planners and a building company.

The Vale's LDP, which will set out how land in the area is to be used between 2011 and 2026, is currently being examined by a Welsh Government appointed planning inspector to determine whether the LDP "is sound".

Following completion of the examination, the inspector will issue a report which will detail the changes the council must make to the LDP and outline the reasons for them. The recommendations in the inspector's report will be binding on the council which must accept the changes recommended by the inspector.

The hearing sessions concerning housing allocations were scheduled for March 1-9 with the hearings for alternative sites being considered in April.

The Vale planners' proposals for housing allocations will have a major impact on transportation, with inevitable major issues at Waterton, Bridgend and Culverhouse, Cardiff. The hearing on transportation is scheduled for March 23.

I wonder whether this planning inspector will be as brave as the inspector who presided over the first Cardiff LDP examination and threw the plan out due to lack of soundness?

In my humble opinion, the current Local Development Plan process is full of defects. It is not as inclusive as intended and does not provide for sufficient, effective public input.

In an RCT enquiry, there was reference to a site in the Cynon Valley where within a few days before the deadline date for submissions/objections the local people became aware of the scheme and submitted (unfortunately 18 hours too late) a petition against the allocation of land, with over 600 signatures. However, due to the time limit, the inspector said he could not take it into account.

If the LDP is thrown out, although it is very unlikely, I hope the Vale planners will reconsider the Llandow Newydd Scheme which focused development on one site of mixed brown and green field land.

It provided a new residential village, shops and a primary school.

The promoters of the site were also prepared to construct the much needed Llysworney by-pass (included on local plans back in the 1970s), donate several millions of pounds to Llantwit Major and Cowbridge Comprehensive School, and provide a new railway station at the former Llandow halt.

From my experience of LDPs, they do not seem to take into account national and regional planning policies.

Instead, the big firms of developers are dictating where they prefer to build houses. Personally, I hope that the planning inspector throws out the Vale's LDP.

However, it will be too late for the communities of Llangan, Wick and Colwinston, where planning consent has already been granted; pre-LDP examination, and the construction of houses has already commenced. Surely the Vale planners should have been required by law to delay the granting of any such developments until after the planning inspector has provided his post-enquiry report ?

If the Welsh Assembly Government decides that the Vale of Glamorgan and Cardiff County Borough Councils should merge, then "the garden of Cardiff" (as the Vale is often referred to) will become the focus for future residential developments rather than the existing Cardiff CBC area.

Unfortunately, I think it is inevitable that these two authorities will merge and we will return to the old South Glamorgan County Council area (plus the inclusion of Wick, St Brides Major, Ogmore-by-Sea, Corntown and Ewenny communities which were formerly part of Ogwr BC and Mid Glamorgan).

In my humble opinion, the only hope for the Vale of Glamorgan post 2026 is for the Conservative Party to put forward a new Local Plan process where there is greater public participation, greater public awareness of the planning authority's proposals, and less influence by the firms of housing developers.

Gareth Davies,
chartered surveyor,

LAMBS SAMPLE LIFE INSIDE A PoW CAMP!

AS a follow-up to two highly entertaining talks last year by Mike Clubb, on the Bridgend Arsenal and the nearby Island Farm prisoner of war camp, members of the LAMBS local history group attended an open weekend of the Hut 9 Preservation Society at the PoW camp, near Bridgend.

The LAMBS group visit Island Farm.

It turned out to be a very special occasion which left everyone full of admiration for the work of the preservation society over several years, in producing a first-class educational and recreational facility.

The tour began at the Hut 9 visitor centre with an entertaining illustrated talk by Brett Exton about the chequered history of the camp, which had four separate and very different uses during and after the Second World War.

It was built as a hostel for women workers at the Bridgend Arsenal, but they rejected the hostel accommodation in favour of lengthy bus trips each day to and from their homes.

The first occupants of the camp were American soldiers, stationed there in 1943 in preparation for the D-Day landings.

The invasion of Europe in 1944 produced large numbers of prisoners, and Island Farm was selected to hold about 2,000 of them.

The War Office later decided that German officers, rather than enlisted men, should be held at the camp and the first of these arrived in November 1944.

On the night of March 10, 1945, 70 prisoners escaped through a tunnel but all were recaptured.

All 1,600 prisoners were then transferred out of the camp and it was designated as a special camp to house senior German officers, including many awaiting transfer to Nuremberg to face trial or give evidence.

These senior officers included men with the rank of general, admiral, and field marshal, and some had been among Hitler's closest advisers. The camp finally closed in 1948.

Following Brett's talk, the society chair, Jonathan Hicks, conducted the LAMBS party to Hut 9, where they were given a further talk on personal childhood memories and the work of the Preservation Society, by the vice chair, Richard Williams.

They were then invited to view a wide range of outstanding displays and presentations by volunteers dressed in appropriate uniforms that graphically illustrated the various periods in the history of the camp.

Finally, the party were taken to see the site of the escape tunnel, which led from Hut 9 out under a nearby fortified boundary fence.

On behalf of LAMBS, Trevor Morgan thanked Jonathan, and the many volunteers who had contributed to the weekend event, for providing such valuable insights into important aspects of our local history. MB

New £1.2 billion 'City Deal' could bring 25,000 jobs to the region...

THERE was cross-party approval yesterday as both the Vale and Bridgend county borough were included in the £1.2 billion 'City Deal'.

The deal, which brings together 10 local authorities, includes more than £500m of Welsh Government support towards improving transport infrastructure within the region. It is expected to deliver up to 25,000 new jobs and bring in an additional £4 billion of private sector investment.

Welsh Government Finance Minister Jane Hutt AM said: "This is an important milestone and the culmination of months of detailed negotiations. With the local authorities contributing £120 million, the total investment is significant.

"The authorities asked for the Metro to be a central project in this City Deal and we agreed that it can bring wider economic development."

Vale MP Alun Cairns said: "I am relieved that the Vale will be part of the City Deal.

"Being part of the deal means that our local area can benefit from major projects with improved infrastructure and job creation."

The Leader of the Vale Council, Coun Neil Moore, said: "The City Deal will bring benefits to all 10 local authority areas.

"The deal will also ensure that the Vale continues to be centre stage in the growth of the region and is able to maintain the momentum that has been generated by the regeneration of Barry and the recent announcement of significant investment in the St Athan Enterprise Zone."

The Leader of the Welsh Conservatives, Andrew RT Davies, said: "This once in a generation opportunity is yet further evidence that the UK government is prioritising Wales and that Conservatives are delivering for communities in the region.

"The hard work now begins on ensuring the deal delivers for all and benefits not only Cardiff but the people and communities across the region."

Eluned Parrott, Lib-Dem AM for South Wales Central, said:

"The City Deal programme was set up by the Liberal Democrats in the last coalition to give greater funding and powers to local authorities.

"This huge level of investment will see more powers given to local communities to take control, and ensure prosperity reaches every corner of our region, rather than localizing in one area.

AWARDS FOR HELPING THE HARD OF HEARING

LOCAL organisations who ensure they are accessible to the one-in-six people in Wales who are deaf, or hard of hearing, are being urged to bid for a prestigious award.

Action on Hearing Loss Cymru Excellence Wales awards recognise businesses and organisations who enable the 575,500 people to use their services.

Formerly RNID, it has been a charity supporting people who are deaf, or have hearing loss since 1911, and launched the Excellence Wales awards last year.

These are open to public services, private companies and voluntary organisations providing services in Wales. Entries will be judged by a panel of people who are deaf, or have hearing loss. Awards will be presented to the country's three outstanding organisations at a glittering gala dinner at Cardiff's Marriott Hotel on May 20, presented by journalist Mariclare Carey-Jones, alongside special celebrity guests.

In 2015, Bridgend County Borough Council was the main Excellence Wales award winner for their regular deaf awareness training for staff, engagement with local British Sign Language users and proactive approach to ensure assistive technology, such as hearing loops, are in working order.

Full information and applications forms are available at excellencewales@hearingloss.org.uk or call 02920 333034. Entries must be submitted by May 1.

UNSUNG NHS HEROES
Caring Joy, Rosemary and Bev share top award

THREE members of staff from Age Connects Cardiff and the Vale willing to go that extra mile to help those in need were deservedly recognised at the NHS Staff Recognition Awards recently.

Joy Corley, Rosemary Counsell and Bev Williams were joint winners of the Chair and Chief Executive's Award – caring for people and keeping them well – day in, day out, and demonstrating the Cardiff and Vale University Health Board's core values of kindness, care, honesty, integrity, respect and personal responsibility.

The UHB state that this award is aimed specifically for the 'Unsung Heroes'.

A spokesperson said that all three women were nominated for their efforts in seeing patients promptly, looking at the whole person and going above and beyond their role in supporting the community resource team, to keep older people well and as safe as they can be at home.

The Age Connects team work with individuals identified as vulnerable to social isolation.

Joy was especially recognised for her role working in partnership with Anna Sussex at the UHW in the better management of attendees to accident and emergency and out of hours referral thus saving valuable NHS resources.

Rosemary uses her own personal time to ensure the well-being of those she is working with. Bev spent Christmas Eve ensuring that an isolated and vulnerable older person was not without heating and did not come to any harm.

Rosemary Counsell commented: "We were absolutely stunned to realise that we had won the award, and thrilled for the recognition of the work that Age Connects does. It's a great privilege and very humbling, as we know many other people are working hard too without any public recognition".

To find out more about Age Connects Cardiff and the Vale services to assist local older people, visit www.ageconnectscardiff.org.uk or call 02920 683 604.

POLICE CAUTION: If it's too good to be true, it probably is!

DC IAN ROCHE, from the economic crime unit of South Wales Police, recently gave a well-attended recent meeting of Cowbridge U3A information on common types of fraud, and advice on what could be done to avoid becoming a victim.

Fraud imposes a massive cost on individuals, legitimate businesses and public authorities. Half of all victims are age between 41 and 60, so it's not just the "confused" and elderly who are susceptible; fraudsters are known to sell on a "suckers'" list, so that vulnerable people are likely to be targeted on multiple occasions.

The main types of fraudulent practices were described by DC Roche, including Boiler Room Investment scams where people are encouraged to buy shares or commodities such as vintage wine, which apparently offer excellent returns, but prove to be worthless, of course.

'Vishing' involves telephone calls purporting to be from the police or your bank, where access to your accounts or credit cards is sought.

One of the cruellest frauds is when victims are offered assistance in recovering the money they have already lost to crime, but there needs to be a payment in advance to cover the costs.

Some good news was that Chip and PIN credit and debit cards are far more secure than the older style cards with just magnetic strips containing information.

He urged people to keep personal information safe. Be suspicious of e-mails from people or organisations that you are unfamiliar with – if in doubt, don't open them. In the case of telephone calls, check out who you are dealing with – your bank and the police will NEVER ask for confidential information, nor ask you to move money between accounts, nor to give your credit card to a courier.

The best advice on keeping yourself safe from fraud was to remember, "If it's too good to be true, it probably is," he said.

A talk entitled: 'The Life of Composer Rossini, with piano illustrations' by Rev Clive Williams will given at 2pm on April 13 in Cowbridge Town Hall. Visitors welcome; there is a small fee, which includes refreshments. See www.u3asites.org.uk/cowbridge.

Airport's record rise in passengers

FOLLOWING nine months of steady growth, the total number of passengers travelling through Wales' national Airport over the rolling year has passed the 1.2 million mark.

This follows a record-breaking February, which saw passenger numbers increase by 68 per cent (totalling 75,055) on the previous year.

Routes seeing the largest passenger growth are: 1. Dublin – operated by Aer Lingus and Flybe; 2. Edinburgh – operated by Flybe; 3. Paris – operated by Flybe; 4. Faro – operated by Flybe and Thomson; 5. Lanzarote – operated by Thomas Cook and Thomson Holidays.

Debra Barber, managing director and chief operating officer at Cardiff Airport, said: "2015 has been a real turning point for Cardiff Airport. Looking ahead to the coming year, we are confident we will build on this success. We continue to work with new and incumbent airlines to offer more travel choices for our customers and we will continue to enhance the passenger journey with a new departures area opening in summer 2016."

Fascinating talk on the Houston brothers

IT was a return visit for Dean Powell when he spoke to the March meeting of Sully U3A, having previously spoken on the life of Dr William Price.

His subject this time was the actor, Glyn Houston. He told members about Houston's early life in Tonypandy, where he was one of three children, his older brother being the actor Donald Houston, and how his grandmother, Rose, was an important influence on his life.

Whereas his brother Donald's career as an actor took off after auditioning for a theatre group, becoming friends with Stanley Baxter and Richard Burton, Glyn served in the army in the Second World War and was briefly a stand-up comedian, performing to soldiers.

He made his first film appearance in The Blue Lamp in 1950 and this was the start of a career which has seen him make over 200 film and television appearances. He is now 90 years old and still does voice overs- and radio work. It was a fascinating glimpse not only into Glyn's life, but also Donald's and the film and TV industry.

Members also had a short presentation by representatives of the Age Cymru Handy Man team, who gave information on the services available to anyone over 50, including advice on smoke alarms, home energy checks and carbon monoxide alarms.

During the month, the Knitters and Stitchers Group has been busy, visiting Cowbridge for a presentation on knitting yarns and designs by a representative of Bergere de France and visiting the Stitch and Craft Show at Malvern.

The next monthly meeting will be on Thursday, April 14 at 2pm in the Old School, Sully, when members will be entertained by the Singing for Pleasure group. New members are always welcome.

Little Grey Fergie is the star of The One Show!

BBC's The One Show came to the Vale of Glamorgan on Saturday, March 5 to film the Ferguson Model T.20 tractor, which is celebrating its 70th anniversary throughout the world this year.

The T.20 was built in Coventry between 1946 and 1956 by Harry Ferguson.

The Ferguson Club in south Wales organised the event at the request of The One Show. Filming started in Aberthin, Cowbridge at 9am with the Tractor Boys of Aberthin.

Martyn Huish was on hand to assist the One Show's reporter, Christine Walkden, to work on a Ferguson Model T.20 – 'the little grey Fergie' – to get it ready for the afternoon filming at Ogmore Castle Field.

The Glamorgan Iron Horse Vintage Society helped to ensure that there were 22 Model T.20 Ferguson tractors on site at Ogmore Castle for the filming of the parade, with Christine driving the lead tractor.

A number of spectators attended the filming and a collection was made for the Wales Air Ambulance fund.

Christine thanked everyone for attending and for support given to the filming crew, and raised a glass to 'the little grey Fergie', with the hope that it will still be here for the next 70 years.

The south Wales representative of the Ferguson Club, Basil George, of Ogmore village, thanked the film crew for showing how much work is put into making a film for TV.

He also thanked Rob Williams for the use of his field, and the Glamorgan Iron Horse Vintage Society and the Tractor Boys of Aberthin for all their work in making the filming a success.

Basil welcomed the Ferguson Club's vice-chairman, Peter Aston, who had travelled from Gwent for the day.

Luckily the weather was good for the filming of the programme, which will help to ensure that the memory of Harry Ferguson will live on in the years to come.

Local churches to join in annual procession

PEOPLE from all the churches of Barry will join together on Good Friday, for the fifth annual two-mile Walk of Witness through the town.

Father Robert Parrish, Rector of the Barry Churches of St Paul's and Merthyr Dyfan and organiser of the walk said:

"Everyone, children and adults, is warmly invited to join in at the start at the Parade Gardens at 12 noon, or anywhere en route."

The walk is being supported by churches of all denominations in Barry and will include children from church Sunday schools and youth clubs. Leaving the Parade Gardens, the walk will travel via Broad Street to arrive at King Square in time for a short service for Good Friday at 1.30pm.

The wooden cross, made by Barry College, will be carried in the procession to re-enact Christ's carrying of his cross on the way to his crucifixion.

This is the fifth year of the Barry Walk of Witness which first began in 2012.

THE 1st Penmark with Porthkerry Cubs' 100th anniversary party took place on March 2.

Leaders and helpers, past and present, heard about the good work that goes on in 1st Penmark with Porthkerry Scout group, Queen Scout and Explorer belt plaques were unveiled and the Cubs entertained with their version of Cinderella on a shoestring.

The guests and Cubs enjoyed a buffet provided by Coffee Time in Rhoose, although the Cubs were more interested in the cakes than the sandwiches! a spokesperson reports

Beavers and Cubs have also enjoyed a joint evening with pot decorating and a beetle drive game. They also invested new Beavers and several Beavers were invested into Cubs.

Beavers and Cubs have also taken part in the district swimming gala, where two members made it to the finals.

Scouts have completed their shooting and are looking forward to a walk and camp at the weekend. They are walking from Barry Boys Comprehensive School to Jubilee Fields on Saturday, then on Sunday, they walk on to St Fagans.

""This is a great challenge both physically, due to the distance involved and they have to carry all their food and kit – and mentally, as it allows them to work on their map reading skills.

Gangsta Granny was far from boring!

RECENTLY, the 7BR class at Barry Comprehensive School was treated to a trip to the New Theatre in Cardiff to see Gangsta Granny.

They have been reading the extremely funny and lively book Gangsta Granny in the Learning Lounge with Mrs Turnbull and students from the Atlantic College.

Throughout the play, the boys laughed and squealed at the comedy performance of the actors on stage. Jake Hill, Jay Sansome and Logan Marks's favourite part was when Granny did naked yoga. Connor O'Kelly's favourite part was Ben's dance in a competition. The boys totally enjoyed the experience.

In the story, our hero Ben is bored beyond belief after he is made to stay at his grandma's house. She's the most boring grandma ever: all she wants to do is to play Scrabble, and eat cabbage soup.

But there are two things Ben doesn't know about his grandma; 1. She was once an international jewel thief; 2. All her life, she has been plotting to steal the Crown Jewels, and now she needs Ben's help!

PANDA 'THREEQUEL' FIZZES WITH PLEASING WIT AND ENERGY...

WHEN Kung Fu Panda was released in 2008, it was a pleasant surprise – comedic, with an underpinning of adult themes, and a range of animals doing kung fu; what more could you want!

It was followed by a sequel in 2011, and that was successful enough for a third instalment which goes by the rather unimaginative name of Kung Fu Panda 3 (no need for a colon and portentous title here).

This time round, Po (voiced by Jack Black) is faced with his biggest challenge yet – reconnecting with his long-lost father Li (voiced by Bryan Cranston). The pair travel to meet a secret group of pandas, but when the villainous Kai (J K Simmons) sweeps across China defeating all kung fu masters, Po must train his fellow pandas in the ways of the martial arts...

It's a pretty common rule that by the time a franchise reaches its third instalment, the law of diminishing returns kicks in (if hasn't already by the second part!). On that basis, and coupled with the fact that it's been five years since the second outing for Po and friends, Kung Fu Panda 3 should be a disappointing disaster, a cash-in on the goodwill and name value of the series.

That it's not is a pleasant surprise; that it's actually one of the most visually inventive and enjoyable animation films you are likely to see this year is an even more pleasant surprise.

After all, this has never been a franchise that has rested on its laurels, and the fact that third time around you are still left impressed by not just the gorgeous visuals, but the dexterity in the storytelling is a testament to the creative forces behind the scenes.

The building blocks of the series so far are in place early – Po is still, despite being rather good at kung fu,

by GARETH JAMIESON
Follow Screen Talk on Twitter – @GEMScreenTalk

as accident-prone and goofy as ever, a larger threat that requires him to 'bear' up and defend people is the main story thread as he learns valuable life lessons – but in this outing, it's the dressing over such staples that makes this a worthwhile viewing experience.

Visually, the film maintains the standards set by the other outings by being gorgeous to look at, a superb mix of faultless animation and an eye for the genre, the occasional use of split screens and anime-esque visuals fitting tonally – and looking amazing.

There is also, from an adult perspective, the satisfaction of seeing the film's 'message' delivered without being cloying or annoying is great; it doesn't talk down to the target audience and strikes a balance between the age ranges, delivering good gags and story.

The voice cast are all strong, even if the starry supporting cast of the likes of Angelina Jolie, Seth Rogen et al are sidelined through the plot's focus on Po (a cynic would suggest the talent weren't that keen to be involved, or budget cuts), but Jack Black is great as the titular panda, while Bryan Cranston as his father knows his way around a joke or two and offers the gravitas needed for such a role.

If Kate Hudson's Mei Mei being given too little screen time is a dampener, then it's made up for with J K Simmons' wonderfully-villainous Kai, a memorable villain who strikes a neat line between real malevolence and a snarky self-deprecating personality, brought wonderfully to life by the actor.

By the film's end there is every chance (subject to box-office receipts) that there'll be a fourth outing for the Kung Fu Panda and his chums – but as long as the films continue to be as satisfying and enjoyable as this one, that can only be a good thing!

VERDICT: A film that is more energised and exciting than many 'threequels', Kung Fu Panda 3 is tremendous offering, fizzing with wit and energy. The voice cast are top-notch, and the film is delivered with a visual zeal that makes this one of the most thrilling animation films of the year. Highly recommended.

SEE THIS IF YOU LIKED: Kung Fu Panda (2008), How To Train Your Dragon 2 (2014).

Experience the Burn in this Adventure Spectacular

IT'S the 2016 Year of Adventure in Wales, and nothing says adventure quite like a Burn Series event in the picturesque surroundings of Margam Park on Saturday, April 2.

Attracting all levels and abilities there are two distances to choose from: the Mini Burn – consisting of a 3km run, 1km kayak and 10km mountain bike, allows adults and juniors to compete together as a team. It's the only event of it's kind in the UK and consequently has gained many fans.

Among the Burn supporters is previous world champion adventure racer Nick Gracie, who has competed in the Mini Burn many times before with his nine-year-old son, George.

"It's been a great father and son bonding experience. George has loved the races and can't wait for the next one. It has also encouraged him to do more running and cycling as he wants to go a little faster next time."

The second distance, the Burn, the ultimate fitness challenge is a 10km run, 1km kayak and 40km mountain bike orienteer.

The day is part funded by the Welsh Government and as it is the Year of Adventure in Wales, there will also be some additional adventure challenges to test both competitors and inquisitive spectators.

Supporting the event will be live entertainment from The Wave radio station and Llantrisant-based up and coming band The Broadcasts, who have recently been featured on BBC Radio Wales.

ITV Wales' Coast and Country presenter, Andrew Price, will also be providing some bushcraft demonstrations and sponsors 9Bar and More Drinks will be on hand to provide all competitors with free samples.

Organiser Maria Leijerstam who holds two world first records, said: "I have designed these races to ensure competitors will be able sample the excitement of adventure racing in a fun and friendly way and share the buzz that I feel about the sport."

EASTER IS A TIME OF JOY AND FUN AT HIGH STREET

THE dark, damp days of winter are behind us – and now the light evenings are arriving, the sun is glittering, and Easter is almost upon us.

In High Street, Barry, that means the Easter bonnet parade.

Where, you may wonder, does this much loved tradition come from? Well, the idea was that at this time of year people should wear some new clothes, so Easter finery – and extravagant bonnets – became a tradition.

Bob Armstrong of High Street traders told The GEM: "Our Easter Bonnet parade will take place on Saturday, March 26.

"There will be three categories, so everyone, no matter how young or how old, can take part."

Of course, there will be prizes for the winners.

Bob added: "The categories will be nought to five, six to 11 and 12 to 100 and over!

"We're hoping that Alun Cairns and Jane Hutt will act as judges.

"Mums and dads and children should assemble outside Habanas in High Street at 10.45am.

"The bonnet parade will start at 11am, and will make its way up and down High Street."

The bonnet parade always makes for a colourful spectacle and seeing the young children in their Easter hats is a joy to see.

A trip to High Street, Barry can make Easter extra special.

Anyone who knows anything about High Street shopping realises that the business owners always make the effort to provide something that little bit different.

Many people find the Christmas build-up something of a marathon – but strangely Easter is a sprint, with loved-ones often relying on the simple gift of an Easter egg.

Surely it's nice to get a memorable gift – and High Street businesses will inspire you.

Take Aspirations Florist at 9 High Street which can provide a wonderful bouquet; or create a flower arrangement to brighten your home over the festive period.

Homemade Wales on Island Road is the quintessential 'alternative' gift boutique.

It specialises in hand-crafted items and housewares.

Fay Blakeley, the owner, said: "All the stock is crafted in Wales and made by hand. Customers love the fact that everything is really different."

Barry Island cushions in seaside pastel colours; vintage personalised silver spoons; aromatic candles with the fragrances in bara brith, Welsh cake, jasmine, passion fruit and coconut; the Welshification of greeting cards with designs like Robinson Croeso, Cwtch Me If You Can and When Barry met Sully; ceramics; hand-printed wrapping paper; slate love spoons – there's so much that's worth a browse.

Fay's business benefits the local economy and Welsh crafts people too.

For more information go to: Facebook.com/homemadewales.

Even from outside The Smelly Shop at 100 High Street it smells wonderful as the gorgeous scents escape through the front door.

The shop, jointly owned by Emma and Claire, sells luxury handcrafted soaps and bath bombs, home fragrance soya bean candles, gift sets, cushions, bags, scarves and home accessories.

Walkers go 'over the stiles or not!'

ON a bright sunny morning, 11 Valeways walkers set off from The Pelican to climb to the top of Ogmore Down. It was a steep climb but on reaching the top, the views opened out across the Bristol Channel to north Devon and Exmoor.

Passing golfers on Southerndown golf course, the walkers dropped down into the village of St Bride's, passing the church of St Bridget on the way.

Turning right, they headed for the now closed (unfortunately) Farmers Arms and then walked across fields to the top of Pant y Slade and walked down the valley to Dunraven Bay, where a stop was made.

They then climbed the steps to the top of the cliff heading for Ogmore by Sea. In the sunshine, it was a glorious walk along the cliff top. A red kite soared overhead and Chris pointed out 350 million-year-old fossilised coral in the rocks.

Turning inland to trek up the Ogmore valley, the group walked through the sand dunes to cross the road by Portobello House. A heron flying over was being mobbed by gulls who clearly were unhappy about its presence!

The group climbed a footpath running parallel with the road but higher up, with extensive views over Merthyr Mawr. A short walk along this path brought them back to the pub for welcome food and drink. Many thanks to The Pelican for their hospitality and the use of their car park.

CAROLYN GULLY

TALES OF THE STEAM ENGINE TORNADO...

THE Barry Men's Forum chairman welcomed new member Barry Franks, who has recently moved to the town from Kent.

John Rees-Davies then introduced the speaker for the day Mr Mike Wilcock, whose hobby is filming steam engines.

His collection of video is immense and he presently has 160 clips on You Tube with 820,000 viewers at the last count.

The compilation of film he presented was mainly about the steam engine Tornado, which is a replica of the original engine and took 19 years to build.

It was completely manufactured in the UK, except for the boiler, which was produced in Germany, and has been the only part of this recreation to breakdown, requiring it to be returned to the manufacturers for a major upgrade.

Watching it being officially named by Prince Charles in 2009, it caused members mirth when, during his speech, he and Camilla were completely obliterated and drowned out by steam and smoke suddenly belched from the engine.

Mike had been privileged to ride aboard in the cab of the Tornado, on the West Somerset Line, and had film of his experience.

What surprised him most was the fireman continually stoking the fire, without a break. Such foot-plate experiences are now largely restricted due to health and safety, but the interest is so great, that on Tornado's two weeks on the Somerset Line, it paid for itself in the first two days.

The next meeting is today, March 17, when Mr Paul Haley will be talking about Barry Regeneration. New members are very welcome at £2 per meeting, which includes light refreshments, starts at 10.15am and finishes by noon. The Barry Men's Forum meets at the Trinity Presbyterian Church Hall, every Thursday morning.

For further information, contact the chairman Peter Westcott on 02920 594881.

Dinas Powys call for library volunteers

LIBRARY volunteer open day got off to a flying start at the Dinas Powys Library after the steering committee of the community library arranged to formally sign up volunteers who will be trained and have the assistance of a peripatetic librarian.

Dinas Powys is one of five community libraries to be created which include Sully, Rhoose, St Athan and Wenvoe.

The Vale cabinet has accepted the business case of the Dinas Powys steering group and intends to enter into legal agreements with the group.

Coun Chris Franks, chair of the steering group, said: "We are making steady progress, but there is a great deal of work to be undertaken. It looks as though the short-term funding arrangements are in place and we have a large team of people willing to assist.

"A constitution is being agreed along with the necessary policies and training. The existing book stock will be retained and refreshed as necessary along with the continuation of the computers.

"We do face challenges and we are fortunate to have a great deal of community support. We will be having more opportunities for people who have expressed an interest to formally sign up. Please contact Keith Hatton on 07749825751 or email khatton263@btinternet.com. New faces welcome."

Praise for western Vale Paramedic Pilot

AT a meeting with the head of operations for Cardiff and Vale Welsh Ambulance Service, Jane Hutt AM was told about the success of the western Vale paramedic pilot.

It covers Llantwit Major, Cowbridge, Rhoose and other Vale villages, and is part of the response to bring down ambulance waiting times in the difficult to reach rural areas of the Vale.

Ms Hutt had worked closely with Coun Gwyn John and WAST to improve ambulance waiting times in the western Vale, and they were both delighted when "years of campaigning brought the dedicated rapid response paramedic service to Llantwit Major".

She added that they are following up plans to co-locate ambulance, police and fire services in Llantwit Major.

It's a Stitch-up at new exhibition!

RECENTLY, a new exhibition opened at the Travellers' Gallery, Barry Station.

The exhibition, entitled, 'Barry in Stitches' has been set up by Barry Hookers crochet and craft group, who meet on a weekly basis at Coffee Cove coffee and wine bar, Barry Island.

The group has been running now for almost three years, and having outgrown its original venue at Barry library, now has 67 members.

The most recent work is a group effort, and consists of ideas about Barry from the group. It is worked in different ways including crochet, sewing, quilting, knitting and cross stitch.

The exhibition was opened by Vale AM Jane Hutt, who said: "I was delighted to open the Barry in Stitches exhibition at the Mind in the Vale Gallery, and to donate one of the beautiful canvases to MENCAP to support Barry project worker Sian Rodgers."

The other two canvases will be donated to Mind in the Vale who host the Travellers' Gallery in their cafe at Barry Station, and to the RNLI who will place it in their shop on Barry Island when the exhibition is over.

The craft group meets every Wednesday at Coffee Cove, and new members are always welcome.

Police concern at traffic in Dinas Powys

Mill Road, outside St Peter's Church.

LOCAL county councillors have welcomed an offer from the police to join them in their operations to reduce traffic speeds along Mill Road, Dinas Powys.

It follows complaints by residents and councillors about traffic dangers.

At the request of councillors, the Vale highways department recorded that, in less than an hour, there were 166 vehicles, all of which were seen to be free flowing. A total of 68 of them were recorded travelling in excess of the 30 mph limit, 10 of which were travelling above the Association of Chief Police Officers' threshold guidelines for prosecution.

Coun Keith Hatton said that Plaid Cymru councillors would be delighted to join the police along Mill Road.

He went on: "The police have been working with the highways department to assess the statistics relating to the speed of traffic. In a short early morning period a significant number of vehicles were driven above the speed that would trigger prosecutions."

Coun Val Hartrey said it was a serious issue and too many motorists were behaving irresponsibly. "We all know that some drivers like to speed along this route and then up Penyturnpike, especially at busy periods along Cardiff Road."

Apprentice Chloe making her mark!

TO celebrate National Apprenticeship Week (March 14 – 18), Arriva Trains Wales is this week highlighting the achievements of its young and talented apprentices who are seeking to gain industry-recognised qualifications with the business, including 18-year-old Chloe Thomas from Barry.

She was recruited into Arriva's engineering department on a four-year apprentice contract in September 2015. Chloe will now be training for an HNC in engineering and will qualify to become a craft interchangeable maintenance technician after her four-year-training.

She is also studying for a qualification in electrical engineering at Coleg y Cymoedd – as the only female engineer at Arriva's Canton maintenance depot.

"It was really daunting at first going into a workplace and profession that is considered male-dominant, but everyone made me feel welcome and gave me the chance to prove myself as a good worker," Chloe said.

"The apprenticeship with Arriva Trains Wales is my first full-time job. There's a lot to take in and learn but I'm enjoying every minute. One of the most enjoyable parts of the job is the varied nature of the work. Every day is different with another challenge to face."

Children's Commissioner helps Vale AM's spring breakfast to celebrate young people in the Vale

Spring Breakfast.

THE Vale AM, Jane Hutt, held her 17th spring breakfast in Barry on March 10 at the Cardiff and Vale College Glamorgan Suite, where Professor Sally Holland, Children's Commissioner for Wales, was the guest speaker – as this year's theme was young people.

She congratulated the Vale Youth Forum on their "excellent engagement in promoting youth participation in the Vale".

The AM added: "With representation from Barry Youth Action, Llantwit Major's Youth Council, the deputy Vale Youth Mayor, Mencap, Vale People First and St Richard Gwyn and Bryn Hafren school councils, this was a wonderful opportunity for young people to discuss their views with the Children's Commissioner.

"The breakfast was prepared and served by a fantastic student team from the college, who also raised funds for their chosen charities with a raffle.

"I would like to thank everyone who attended the spring breakfast and all those who made it such a significant event."

Local children learn that science can be fun at Dow Corning, Barry

DURING British Science Week, the Dow Corning site at Barry organised science activities for 250 children from eight local primary schools.

From March 7-10, these nine and ten year olds participated in memorable hands-on science experiments, encouraging them to learn about the fun side of science.

Each year since 1997, more than 200 local schoolchildren converge on the Dow Corning site in Barry in the Vale for a week of specialised learning where they had the opportunity to become 'scientists for the day,' as part of Dow Corning's participation in British Science Week in the United Kingdom. The aim of these activities is to encourage more children into science careers by giving them a love for science while still in primary school.

The scientific discovery this year centered on handmade products for the bath. The children were introduced to chemistry as they learned how to mix solid and liquid chemicals to create bath bombs and bubble bath. Each pupil was able to make his/her own choice of scents and colours for a uniquely fragranced bubble bath, which they then took home in a bottle they decorated themselves.

The programme remains a focal point in the schools' calendar and this year had support from the Mayor of the Vale of Glamorgan, Coun Fred Johnson, who joined in the fun with the local Cadoxton Primary School.

'Make better use of beach huts' – Plaid call

Left to right, Couns Nic Hodges, Shirley Hodges, Ian Johnson and Steffan Wiliam.

SCHOOLS should have beach hut access to teach local children about Barry's coastline heritage, say Plaid Cymru councillors for Barry Island, Nic Hodges and Steffan Wiliam.

They have called for better use of the Barry Island beach huts and a business plan to "ensure maximum use and value for money from the investment".

Both councillors spoke at the Vale Council's economy and environment committee which looked at the first year of operation since the beach huts were opened for hire in spring 2015.

They stated that in the first year of operation, the busiest month for beach hut hires was August, when they were hired for a total of 136 days – about 20 per cent of the total capacity. However, in the months of November and February, not a single beach hut was hired to the public.

Coun Steffan Wiliam said: "There needs to be a proper business plan for the beach huts. We have to make it as easy as possible for people to book and gain access to the huts – whether by cash or by app on their smartphone.

"The beach huts should have proper facilities – light, electricity and water.

Coun Nic Hodges said: "The beach huts are a clearly iconic part of Barry Island, well photographed and seen all over social media, but I worry that we have missed the opportunity and novelty of the beach huts to reach new audiences and bring them to Barry Island."

THRIFT SHOP CLOSING

THRIFT Shop in St Athan will close for Easter at 1.30pm on Wednesday, March 23 and reopen at 10am on Monday, April 11. We wish all our customers a very Happy Easter.

Spring Cowbridge Feature

Spring is on the way... and Cowbridge is ready to welcome the new season

SPRING is almost here – although given the unpredictable weather of the last six months it is best to say that with a degree of caution.

It does, however, look as if the long season of mild but very stormy weather has moved on, and optimistic sunshine is finally drying out those sodden lawns.

The arrival of a new season finds traders in Cowbridge revved up ready to go, with new product lines and old favourites on the shelf, ready to keep the customer satisfied.

The town's virtues are pretty constant, and visitors can, as usual, enjoy the relaxed atmosphere, and the wide variety of shops – many on the High Street and many more tucked away in the nooks and crannies of the various idiosyncratic side streets.

One of Cowbridge's big plus points has always been the high proportion of owner-managed businesses, with the shopkeeper being directly responsible for sourcing the stock, rather than just ticking the boxes imposed from head office.

It means that shoppers who want to find something different can find a soulmate on the other side of the counter!

Of course, shopping is more than just filling the carrier bags and heading home. Everyone needs a relaxing break – whether that be a coffee, a drink, a snack or a meal – and Cowbridge has all the bases covered.

With its mix of cafes, traditional pubs, fashionable bars and restaurants, it will take a long time to run out of choice – and the keen competition does what competition is supposed to do – push up standards.

As a bona fide market town (the livestock market is still busy every Tuesday morning) Cowbridge caters for country dwellers and townies alike, and one place that is decidedly 'rural' is the Arthur John clothing store on the High Street.

Here you will find a wide range of stock, featuring two names that are synonymous with country living – Barbour and Joules.

The town has a strong sense of community, too, and some businesses relish their close ties with local people. One such is La Mercerie, in the Old Mason's Yard, where Jean Tait has a huge stock of yarn, patterns and everything you need when it comes to knitting and crocheting.

Jean invites experts in the field to run workshops and meet locals who are keen to learn new techniques, and the next one is on April 3, when Norwegian knitwear designer Anniken Allis will be holding a knitting course.

Another visitor coming soon, although details are still to be finalised, is Eirwen Godfrey, who runs the hand-dying company, KnitWitches.

Jean also has a regular local group who meet on a Wednesday evening (6pm to 8pm) to compare notes and share technical knowledge.

La Mercerie stocks a large range of yarns and patterns.

Just outside the town, on the road to Llantwit Major, is Forest Products, a business that is used to gearing itself up for the arrival of spring.

The manager, Richard Belby, said: "This year is slightly unusual, because it has been such a mild, wet winter that lawns are only now beginning to dry out.

"People haven't wanted to make a start on any projects because the ground was so wet. It's only now that people are ordering items like fence panels to repair the usual damage that winter storms bring about."

One line that is new this year at Forest Products is anti-slip decking – incorporating a 'gravel groove' to make things safer underfoot in wet weather.

The name 'Forest Products' does rather imply that they specialise in wood, and a popular line at this time of year are driveway gates, made to order in hard or soft wood.

Finally, another new line this year, one that Richard expects to be popular, is a range of timber planters.

A new season, new ideas and pet projects to make a start on. That's a good reason to head for Cowbridge.

Although, let's be fair. There's always a good reason to head off to this popular Vale town!

Spring Cowbridge Feature

Cowbridge – THERE'S SO MUCH TO LEARN ABOUT ITS HISTORY

The recently restored plaque over the old river bridge.

AS you might expect from a town that can trace its history back to Roman times – there is so much to learn about Cowbridge.

The GEM asked Dick Buswell of the Cowbridge History Society to point out just a few points of interest that present-day browsers will come across if they take a closer look.....

How many towns do you know that:

• Has a river bridge parapet which carries a main road , but over no river?

• Has a church with a bell tower built for fortification?

• Has a mounting block in the High Street?

• Has a garden which grows plants for medicinal uses?

• Has a former grammar school which was designed by the architect who restored Llandaff Cathedral?

• Held prisoners from a French invasion near Fishguard, Pembrokeshire in 1797, on their way to London?

• Has a council chamber which was part of a former 'House of Correction' – i.e. a prison?

Cowbridge lies where the Romans' main road to the west crossed the River Thaw. Later, it was on the pilgrims' way to St David's and much later, it was on the coaching route from London to Fishguard and Ireland.

It has been for many centuries a market town and the place where Courts of Justice were held. Today, it still plays a prime role in servicing the rural Vale of Glamorgan with a wonderful variety of high-quality shops and restaurants and beautiful gardens in which to unwind.

If you would like to find the locations described above, the bridge parapet is opposite the Cowbridge Bookshop. Its stone plaque commemorating the inauguration of the bridge in 1911 is again legible, as it was recently restored by Cowbridge Charter Trust with funds provided by Cowbridge (ancient borough) with Llanblethian Town Council, the Waterloo Foundation, and by private donations.

It did once cross the river, but the river was moved in 1951!

The church is Holy Cross, and the mounting block can be found across the High Street from Sylvia Williams the Chemists, which is in the large double gabled property formerly 'The Great House' and the town house of the Carne Family of Nash Manor.

The Physic Garden has been planted to exemplify the healing and domestic plants that would have typically been used in former times.

The Cowbridge Grammar School was originally established in the early 1600s, but later rebuilt in 1847-52 by Pritchard.

Following an unsuccessful attempted invasion by the French near Carregwasted Point, during which eight Frenchmen drowned, 12 were killed, and one Welsh woman died in a pub when a pistol was accidentally fired, prisoners being taken to London were reputedly accommodated in The Bear.

The Town Hall was originally built as a 'House of Correction' in 1805. By 1829, a large new prison in Swansea had rendered it redundant. The building was converted by Isaiah Verity into today's Town Hall.

Cowbridge History Society celebrates on March 13 each year, the granting of the first town charter by Richard De Clare on March 13, 1274.

This year, the society marked the date with a visit to Llansannor Court, courtesy of Mr and Mrs Eddershaw, and to the adjacent medieval church of St Senwyr.

FLOORING THE COMPETITION!

SINCE opening in Cowbridge just over 18 months ago, Welsh flooring manufacturer, Broadleaf, has gone from strength-to-strength.

The showroom itself has been a great success, proving popular with professional and retail clients alike, for its extensive range of affordable, designer wood floors of all styles, and expert advice.

David Shewring, Broadleaf's Cowbridge showroom manager, explains: "Our customers are often amazed by the choice we can offer and how affordable a Broadleaf floor can be. Many are worried that buying a wood floor is quite technical, but soon realise that, with good expert advice, it is really quite simple."

With a reputation for innovation, it is not surprising that Broadleaf has a number of exciting new collections in the pipeline for 2016. These include a fabulous range of Smoked Oak floors in both plank and parquet options, a stunning collection of Versailles panels and trend-leading painted floors, with a choice of Little Green Paint Company and Farrow & Ball colours.

Visit the Broadleaf showroom at 71, Eastgate, Cowbridge to find out more.

Better than a chocolate egg!

WITH Easter fast approaching many of us will be looking to buy cards and gifts – and the Pencil Case on Eastgate is the ideal place to find something different.

"Many customers want to buy their children or grandchildren something special for Easter, and ideally something which will last longer than a chocolate egg!" owner Sally Stephenson told us.

"We have a fabulous selection of sensibly-priced gifts for children (and adults!) of all ages. Why not finish it off with an Easter-themed helium balloon and a Welsh or English 'Happy Easter' card?"

The Pencil Case can also help keep children entertained over the school holidays, whether at home or on a long journey. From colouring books, pens and pencils, to jigsaws, sticker books and art and craft supplies, you will be surprised just how many lovely things they now have in stock.

Sally said: "We are very excited about all the new products we have just had delivered, including the ever-popular Rachel Ellen range, brand new Top Model colouring books and lots of new stationery."

GEM READERS' LETTERS EXTRA

Planning: do the sums add up?

VISITING voters on Vale doorsteps, it's clear our council needs a maths course.

Current new homes build: 260 in Ogmore by Sea + 50 in Colwinston + 450 in Cowbridge + 180 in Wick = 940 new households. Multiply by a conservative 1.5 children per home = 1,410 (!) NEW school-aged children.

Cowbridge Comprehensive's census was 1,200 in 2011; today it is 1,538, a 28 per cent increase in five years with no new houses built.

St Bride's Major Primary = full to capacity. Wick Primary = full to capacity. Colwinston Primary = full to capacity.

'Planned' new primary school for Darren Farm? Average council approval time = 10 years. New Llantwit Major Comprehensive = full before it opens next year. Solve for 'x.'

What process allows so many houses built without first figuring we will need 'x' number of school places?

What do we tell new parents who purchased their home three years ago, had a baby, and registered him when he was born with the local school… But were told by the head, they may not have a place for him… in 2018? Solve for 'Tristan.'

'Walkin' Denis' Campbell,
Liberal Democrat Assembly candidate for the Vale.

Sad threat to local wildlife

AFTER reading the article in The GEM about disappearing wildlife at Cemetery Approach, I wholeheartedly agree with the local resident Bryn Evans.

His idea was to keep it natural as it was a haven for all manner of wildlife and birds. Now there is the odd tweet and coo!

I attended the council meeting regarding the proposed works; I was informed that 'nothing much' was found by the council's ecologist. I was also made aware that even more trees will be cut down.

During the consultation, I viewed the plans and there is very little to replace and encourage wildlife, apart from another pond area, the cemetery already has one. It's just a shame there will be little or no use for it.

There is no replanting of hedges or trees that I was made aware of, just open space on both sides, with paths and a new community hall.

The only conservation area left is to the right side, far corner – unless they decide to clear that, too!

Cemetery Lane has little to offer, either, with trees destroyed and damage due to large vehicles and remodelling of the White Farm development, ie the cycle path, which is big enough for cars – and now more clearance for the flood scheme.

Wildlife, as we know it, is no more. Their habitat destroyed, they are being driven out of the area. Numbers are in decline.

Bats were once numerous, hedgehogs visiting, frogs, slow-worms, newts, foxes and squirrels. All manner of birds and insects are noticeably absent.

It is a travesty that our beautiful town is fast turning into a concrete jungle and future generations will probably have to visit a country park or a zoo, to view these beautiful creatures. Now that is sad!

T Abery,
Barry.

THE STORY BEHIND THE PENARTH HISTORY DVD

IT took almost 12 months to produce The Garden by the Sea – A Story of Penarth, from the moment when research began in April 2015 to the completion of the sound edit in early March 2016 – just in time for its official release at the AGM of the Friends of St Peter's (the church in Old Cogan) on March 5.

The result is a 49-minute documentary that is proving highly popular in the town.

Producer Anthony Hontoir, who runs Porthcawl-based Downwood Film Productions, explains: "Most towns have quite a complex history and Penarth is no different.

"My aim was to tell its story from the main essentials of its past, and to let the narrative flow easily by taking the viewer on a leisurely tour through the locality, combining present day scenes, which I shot in and around Penarth from last spring until early autumn, mixed with old photographs and movie footage from the past.

"In respect of that last point, I had a real stroke of luck when an appeal in the local press brought a response from James Barnett, living in France, who grew up in Penarth and whose mother, one of the Leons, a wealthy ship-owning family, had taken a lot of movie footage in the 1930s.

"James came over on a family visit last September and brought around 100 rolls of 16mm film for me to look through. I was able to extract some really fascinating glimpses into the lives of his family all those years ago, and although much of it was concerned with life at the family's home in Park Road, there were also scenes shot on the seafront, and I included them in the finished film."

Anthony was pleased that townspeople and institutions cooperated to allow him to film in various locations, including the iconic pier and Pier Pavilion, and he was able to shoot a high-angle view of the pier from the roof of Seabank apartments, which also gave him a bird's eye view of The Kymin nearby.

One highlight of the film is the Penarth Yacht Club's Regatta last June, when, in addition to filming the preparation of the sailing dinghies on the beach, he was given access to one of the club's rescue boats to show several of the craft setting out for the starting line some distance out in the channel, and this gave a perspective of the promenade that many of Penarth's residents will never have experienced for themselves.

"The thing that was uppermost in my mind," says Anthony, "is that the camera should go to places and look at subjects which people are probably very familiar with, but have never given them their full attention; and this is why, I believe, films of this sort are so important – because they create interest in everyday surroundings. It should be remembered that scenes shot in the present will be history themselves in not too many years."

DVD copies are on sale at £9.95 each and can be purchased from AB Snell newsagents, Stanwell Road; Griffin Books in Windsor Road, and Umpa Lumpa sweetshop in Windsor Arcade.

'Waterfront voting arrangements are better now' – Plaid

PLAID Cymru councillors have welcomed changes to polling stations so that Waterfront residents can vote closer to home in future.

The proposals, which will be in place from this May's Welsh Assembly election, now mean new polling stations for the Waterfront for residents of the Baruc, Buttrills and Castleland wards – all of which are part of the Waterfront.

Voters from the new housing estate by Asda are in the Baruc ward, while the estate south-west of Gladstone Bridge is in Buttrills.

Voters there will vote in a new station by the Premier Inn/Brewer's Fayre.

Castleland residents, east of Gladstone Bridge, will vote at the Docks Offices.

Baruc Plaid Cymru councillor Nic Hodges welcomed the proposals, which were confirmed by the Vale Council at a recent full council meeting.

He said: "New residents on the estate by Asda will be able to vote closer to home, rather than have to travel to the Island.

"With the continued delays over the Island road, that was supposed to have been completed last year, it makes sense for a new polling station on the Waterfront rather than expect voters to drive all of the way around town or walk up the Clive Road steps."

Coun Ian Johnson added: "For the past 15 years, Waterfront residents in Buttrills have had to go to either St Paul's Avenue, Gladstone School or Pioneer Hall on Beryl Road.

"Having a polling station on the Waterfront will make it easier for people to vote on the day and will hopefully increase participation in the democratic process."

Charity in call for improved palliative care for children

UK charity 'Together for Short Lives' has partnered with children's palliative care professionals and providers including Tŷ Hafan to call on the next Welsh Government to maintain momentum in improving palliative care for children with life-shortening conditions.

In Wales, there are currently estimated to be over 1,050 children and young people living with conditions that mean they may not survive into adulthood.

Many of these children have extremely complex and unpredictable conditions, requiring round the clock care, seven days a week.

MANIFESTO

Among the commitments called for in a new document are: a stronger children's palliative care workforce; fair and sustainable funding for children's palliative care services; and improved joint working between children's and adult's services for young people who are transitioning into adult care.

Dr Richard Hain, the consultant and clinical lead of the Wales Managed Clinical Network, helped to produce the new manifesto 'asks'.

Commenting on the new requests in the manifesto 'Together for Short Lives,' chief executive Barbara Gelb said: "The next Welsh Government has the opportunity to transform the lives of the 1,000 children and young people with life-shortening conditions across Wales. These children have complex and unpredictable conditions and rely on tailored care and support.

"24/7 children's palliative care is provided by the family and supported by regular short breaks and specialist care.

"It is vital that the next Welsh Government makes sure there is sustainable funding for children's palliative care and investment in the workforce to make sure there are enough highly-trained specialists to care for these children."

Jeremy Jackson, deputy chief executive of Tŷ Hafan, said: "Our eight manifesto 'asks' set out the steps that the next Welsh Government can take to significantly improve the lives of children with life-shortening conditions and their families. We would like parties to commit not just to additional funding and investment in the sector, but also to promote collaboration within Wales and with the rest of the UK to make sure that we learn from best practice."

It's all go for the children at PhillyBears!

PHILLYBEARS playgroup, held at 5th Barry Sea Scout Hall in Everard Street, Monday to Friday (9.15am to 12.15pm) and on Thursday and Friday afternoons, has had a busy time since January and has also celebrated its third birthday.

A spokeswoman explained: "This Chinese New Year (the year of the monkey) the children enjoyed making monkey masks.

"They tasted Chinese noodles and prawn crackers. They also tried on traditional Chinese clothes which one of the staff members brought back from a trip to China.

"In February, the children celebrated Valentine's Day by making cards for their loved ones.

"For Shrove Tuesday they enjoyed pancakes.

"To start the week on February 29, the children made Welsh cakes with Steve and then took them home for their parents.

"On March 1 there was time to celebrate St David's Day. The children dressed up in Welsh costumes, rugby shirts or in red or green. They also had the chance to make Welsh flags complete with dragon.

"March 3 was World Book Day and the children dressed up as their favourite book character.

"By Friday the staff were all exhausted but had plenty of energy to help the children make Mother's Day cards in the shape of handbags."

Title delight for Penarth hockey team!

HAVING secured promotion the previous weekend, Penarth Hockey Club added further lustre to one of the best seasons in its history by clinching two GoCrea8 Hockey League division titles on Saturday.

SWANSEA UNIVERSITY B 0, PENARTH A 3

Despite the senior side also being on the cusp of a divisional crown, the second XI encounter had more riding on it as the side travelled down the M4 looking for a seventh successive victory, and one that would reward the team with the De Cymru 2 title.

With the Swansea University side also already assured of promotion and holding top spot in the table by virtue of marginally better goal difference, it created a 'winner takes all' scenario suitable for the final week of the season.

The Penarth side started sharply, and it wasn't long before the front line of Dave Watkins and Kidby brothers James and David called the opposition keeper into action. Once the University side settled, however, the game proved to be fast flowing and end-to-end, and either team could have taken the lead.

An entertaining first half finished goalless, with Penarth captain Matthew Birch reminding his side that they were only 35 minutes away from claiming the title and pointing out how Swansea looked out of ideas, while his own players still had plenty left in the tank.

With the visitors' only frustration being that they were still on level terms with their hosts, patience was seen as the key to the second half but, ironically, Penarth weren't kept waiting too long for the first goal as James Kidby pounced on the rebound from a well-saved drag flick penalty corner and crashed the ball high into the net, much to the delight of the Penarth dug-out.

The Vale side's celebrations were muted almost immediately when they were reduced to 10 men following a harsh yellow card for a fairly innocuous foul in midfield, but continued to defend magnificently, limiting Swansea to no more than a few half chances.

Indeed, despite being short-handed, the Bears kept up the pressure on the University goal and, once restored to full strength, extended their advantage with James Kidby again on target, this time with a little help from the hapless goalkeeper after strong work by Docherty on the right saw him steal possession from the student attack before beating a couple more players and finding his forward with a pin-point pass.

As expected, Swansea came back strong, throwing everything forward in an attempt to get back into the game but Penarth refused to buckle. Captain Birch and Sam Chick made their entrance as the game restarted and, despite both carrying niggling injuries, helped put the game beyond doubt.

With Swansea leaving gaps at the back, and Penarth now playing two men up high, gaps were beginning to open up, and Birch exploited one of these to find his fellow substitute who, despite being surrounded by three defenders, proceeded to beat them all before smashing a rocket of a shot past the surprised keeper.

The final whistle was greeted to the celebration of the Bears and their travelling support. Man-of-the-match honours went to the entire backline and goalkeeper as, without their bravery and clean tackling, the score could have been a lot closer than 3-0, but the entire squad can look forward to playing at a higher level next season.

CARDIFF & MET A 3, PENARTH 11

The first XI travelled to local rivals Cardiff & Met knowing that anything other than a defeat would be enough to secure the De Cymru & The Marches 1 title, and were in confident mood with a strong squad on hand.

The Bears made a high-tempo start and soon found themselves two goals to the good, with player-coach Ben Croxall opening the scoring after working himself into space to fire home on the reverse side. The goal was followed in quick succession by another strike from Laith El-Khatib, who continued his remarkable run of goals in the second half of the season.

After some harsh umpiring decisions had temporarily reduced Penarth to nine men, Cardiff & Met used their numerical advantage as a springboard to bounce back into the game, pulling a goal back after an initial save from Adam Putt rebounded to an unmarked attacker, who finished on his reverse side.

The home side continued to dominate through the midpoint of the half but, once back to full strength, Penarth were able to reassert their previous dominance and bagged another two goals before the interval - with El-Khatib converting a drag flick before assisting David Joyce at the back post - to put the Vale side in command.

Penarth knew the first goal after the break would put the game to bed, and it didn't take long to come. Minutes after the restart, Richard John brought the ball out of defence before playing a cutting pass to El-Khatib, who duly fired home to complete his hat-trick.

With Cardiff & Met heads starting to drop, Penarth proceeded to run riot as they looked to finish the season in style. Joyce completed his own hat-trick with only three shots to highlight his finishing prowess, before Sam Williamson scored his first goal in three years after pouncing on a loose ball.

It was El-Khatib who made a grab for the headlines, however, as he added a further three goals before the final whistle to cement his position as leading scorer for the season.

Although Cardiff & Met mustered two goals of their own amid Penarth's glut, the final score of 11-3 left the Bears able to celebrate a well-earned title at the end of a successful season.

PENARTH B 2, WHITCHURCH F 7

Penarth Bees closed their season by playing runaway De Cymru 3 champions Whitchurch F on Saturday but, despite the seemingly one-sided scoreline, more than held their own and possibly deserved a closer result than a 7-2 defeat.

Penarth's plans to frustrate their visitors by playing a defensive system with just one man up front was quickly disrupted when Whitchurch scored two early goals, forcing the home side to revert to their usual formation, with midfield maestro David Thomas going on to feature prominently against his old club.

Penarth's endeavours were eventually rewarded when the hard-working Sam Salisbury beat the Whitchurch keeper with a smart finish, and this encouraged the Vale side to continue to press but, while they were being profligate in their finishing, Whitchurch were not and increased their lead to 4-1 by the interval.

The Bees were conscious that, despite facing a side whose style and ability were way above those of other sides at this level, they were very much still in the game. With midfielder Devash Patel and man-of-the-match Tom Griffiths growing in confidence, the sides exchanged goals early in the second period, with Thomas converting for the Bees to make the score 5-2.

Penarth continued to push forward and went close on a number of occasions, not least when skipper Nick Pratt, rolling back the years, saw a brace of bullet-like penalty corners cleared when seemingly destined for the bottom corner.

What could have been 5-4 quickly became 7-2 following some clinical finishing from the excellent Whitchurch forward line, who put the game beyond Penarth's reach despite the heroic efforts of goalkeeper James Erasmus.

The mutual respect between both sides was evident at the final whistle, as Penarth finished third in De Cymru 3, a more than respectable conclusion to their first season back in competition for 10 years.

Skipper Pratt, in his last game leading the Bees before taking the reins of the newly reformed fourth XI next season, was effusive in his praise and thanked all who had played for and supported the team throughout the season.

With the GoCrea8 Hockey League season now complete, immediate attention turns to the remainder of the cup competitions, with both Penarth's first and second XIs in semi-final action at Sophia Gardens this weekend, taking on Cardiff University A and Llandudno A in the Welsh Trophy (2.15pm) and Welsh Challenge (10.15am) respectively.

Penarth Hockey Club always welcomes new, old and returning players, umpires, supporters, friends and helpers regardless of age and ability. Training takes place on Wednesdays at Stanwell School, with the juniors on the pitch between 6.15pm and 7.15pm and the seniors between 7.15pm and 8.15pm.

Anyone interested in joining the club at senior or youth level can contact either player-coach Ben Croxall (b_croxall20@yahoo.co.uk) or club secretary Dave Stevens (d_stevens81@hotmail.co.uk) for further information.

Local firms show line up for Rotary Dragon Boat regatta

THREE local firms have already signed up to support Barry Rotary Club's Dragon Boat regatta planned for May 28 at Cosmeston Country Park. The event which is believed to be the first of its kind to be held in the Vale, is aiming to raise much needed cash for local charities.

Dragon Boat Racing originated in China over 2,000 years ago and in recent years has become one of the most popular forms of charity event, which allows competitors and spectators to have fun while raising hundreds of thousands of pounds annually for good causes.

Organisers are hoping to attract 10-12 teams to take part in this inaugural fundraiser. The competing teams of 10 rowers sit side by side in a 30-foot long canoe, with a helm to steer and a drummer sitting up high in front, beating out rhythm. The boats are fitted with a colourful dragon's head and are an impressive sight at speed.

The three sponsors who have already signed up are Cosmeston café operators Caterleisure, local hauliers KCS Transport of Aberthaw, and Vale Aggregates based in Barry docks.

Paul Halstead, President of Barry Rotary Club said: "We are really grateful to these sponsors for getting behind us in our bid to present an exciting and fun event which will be great to watch and take part in.

"We want it to develop in the same way that our annual Firework Fiesta on Barry Island has so that it becomes a major date in the Vale's summer calendar".

Helping Barry Rotarians hold the event are professional organisers 'Race the Dragon who assist in dozens of similar fundraisers each year across the UK and include Boyzone's Ronan Keating, Shane Lynch and Keith Duffy and Westlife member Markus Feehily among celebrities who have taken part in their events.

There are several ways in which local people can get involved. Companies can sponsor a boat and provide their own teams with each rower being asked to raise pledges from friends and family of at least £25 which can be shared equally between the team's own and Rotary charities.

Pubs, clubs, charities or just groups of friends or work colleagues can also join in the fun by pledging to raise at least £250 per team.

To find out more about the event, to sponsor a boat, or enter a team, visit www.barrydragonboatfestival.co.uk, or call John Shapland on 01446 760508; email Robin Pitcher at robin.pitcher@talktalk.net.

There's a packed fixture list for Cowbridge RFC!

WITH the Six Nations drawing to a close it's time for Cowbridge to concentrate on the league.

There are still 11 matches to play (half of the league fixtures for the season) stretching well into May.

We start with Canton away this Friday evening, kicking off at 7pm.

There is congestion mid-table with five teams within six points of each other, and while Canton are one point ahead of Cowbridge in sixth place, they have played two more games.

We lost narrowly in November and will be looking for a good win to move up the table.

The following Saturday, March 27, we travel to mid-Wales to face struggling Llandrindod Wells who have won only one fixture all season - contact the club regarding transport for this fixture.

We then face St Albans away, and then have a home game against table-topping Taffs Well - only another seven matches after that, let's hope the weather is kind to us for the next few months!

Last minute Llantwit win

LLANTWIT Major AFC left it very late again to notch up their third Welsh League Division 3 success in a row.

An 88th minute strike by Max Morgan gave the home side the three points against an efficient Bridgend Street side, who themselves are pushing hard for promotion.

The first half was a very even affair without either keeper being asked too many questions.

Chances were rare as both teams' midfield and defensive lines coped comfortably with whatever was thrown at them.

Rob Jones for Llantwit Major was a constant threat in the free role he was given and looked the most threatening for either side.

In the second half Llantwit boss Karl Lewis was forced to make a striker change as Dale Stevenson departed at half-time for Lee Jones.

Further changes were forced as Dan James and John Thomas had to leave the field through injuries.

This forced Karl to play a more attacking formation as Jake Roberts pushed further up the park, while Morgan Lewis plugged the defensive gap admirably.

Lee Jones was involved in an aerial battle around the opposition's penalty spot; the resultant loose ball fell invitingly at Max Morgan feet and he volleyed home with aplomb from around 10 yards out.

Very little time remained and despite their best efforts the visitors could not get close to Jack Landsdown's territory and the three points were kept by the home side

Team: 1 J. Lansdown, 2 J. Thomas (G. Jennings 80), 5 R. Llewelyn(capt), 6 J. Roberts, 3 G. Davies, 4 J. Fletcher, 8 K. Smith, 7 D. James (Morgan Lewis 70), 10 R. Jones, 11 D. Stephenson (L. Jones 45), 9 M. Morgan.

PUPILS PROVE MATHS IS NO PI IN THE SKY!

Cardiff City players Tom Lawrence (Wales team) and Ben Wilson play Pi-less football with Bryn Hafren for Pi Day Cymru.

ON Monday, pupils at a Barry school served up a slice of match day pie - with a difference - in a bid to discover just how much maths affects our everyday lives!

As Pi Day Cymru swept the nation, the Bryn Hafren pupils kicked off the annual maths celebrations by challenging Cardiff City FC players Tom Lawrence (Wales squad player) and Ben Wilson to a 'Pi-less' match, using giant cube-shaped footballs.

The unusual twist on the game, which also featured goalposts shaped like the pi symbol, gave the students insight into what one of the world's most popular sports would be like if a Welshman hadn't coined and championed pi.

Pi Day Cymru has become a widely-recognised event in the maths calendar, thanks to its deep roots in Welsh history. Wales has a unique claim to the maths phenomenon that started in 1706 when William Jones from Anglesey was the first person to use the Greek letter π, or pi, to represent the mathematical constant which allows us to measure the circumference and area of circles.

Ella Forsyth, a 12-year-old year-8 pupil from Bryn Hafren, said: "I hadn't realised just how much we use Pi every day. It was actually really difficult trying to play football with square balls, and it just shows how different life would be if we didn't have pi!"

Pi Day Cymru has seen people of all ages celebrate uses of maths in everyday life. It was the brainchild of Prof Gareth Fffowc Roberts, Emeritus Professor at Bangor University, who last year received the backing of the Welsh Government to establish the date as an official day of national celebration in Wales.

MAD MONEY AND STONY ROAD WINNERS!

SUNSHINE greeted the good crowd at Howick for the Curre & Llangibby which saw the opening on the South Wales and Monmouthshire season and nine bookmakers - a lot fewer than in the past - were in attendance.

Racing got under way with the members, subscribers and farmers race which was won by the Vale's Mrs Jeanne Thomas' Stony Road, which beat the pacemaking Sweet Like You by five lengths.

Stony Road, a nine-year-old bay gelding, was partnered by Charlotte, or Charly as she likes to be known, Prichard whose father Ian trains the horse. Charly, who recently celebrated her 20th birthday, as commentator Eddie Williams told his audience, rode a well judged race and scored by five lengths from Sweet Like You in a time of 6 mins 49s compared to the 6 mins 53.7s when winning with the same rider in the saddle last year.

In the eight-year-ods and over PPORA club members race, recent Lydstep winner Books Review tried to make all the running under Mark Robinson and although still in front at the last, was beaten to the post by Real Milan which gave 21-year-old Jack Jones his first winner in only his fifth ride.

A real family horse, trained at Ross-On-Wye by Jack's mother and father, the 11-year-old bay gelding is apparently an "absolute delight"' to train. The Jones' were making a first visit to Howick and no doubt Jack, who is at Reading University, will want to return.

Seven faced the starter for the men's open race but there was only one horse really in it as Rachel Hooton's Desertmore View, despite jumping to the right at times, made every yard of the running to score by eight lengths from Lamboro Lad.

Desertmore View, winner of last year's Dunraven Bowl Hunter Chase at Chepstow, was surprisingly ridden by Matthew Barber.

His usual partner John Mathias was on Highly Unlikely which was unseated. Desertmore View's owner missed seeing her horse win as she runs a care home in west Wales and was on duty.

It will be up to her whether this exciting eight-year-old bay gelding takes his chance in the Aintree Foxhunters' Steeplechase this year.

Ten of the 18 entries lined up for the ladies' open race which was won by William and Angela Rucker's 11-year-old bay gelding Get It On a winner of several races under rules when trained by Evan Williams.

The well-backed Lauberhorn disappointed once again and was never really in the hunt. Get It On won by four lengths from Tiger Rag and was ridden by Sarah Bowen, aged 23, whose father Tim Bowen had won the 1987 Lady Dudley Cup on Pride Of Tullow. Sarah rides out for the Ruckers who are great point-to-pointing stalwarts.

Evan Williams' 18-year-old daughter Isabel, having her first ride in a point-to-point, led the field a merry gallop on the two mile chaser Sublime Talent which eventually tired in the closing stages but completed the course.

Welsh champion John Mathias initiated the first leg of a double when Without The Favourite, an eight-year-old bay gelding by Oscar, made nearly all to win the 15 strong restricted by five lengths from Island Cruise, who was still in with a chance at the second last fence.

WithoutTheFavourite, who lost his maiden tag at the Beaufort a week before, is trained by John's bride-to-be Amber Griffiths and enthusiasts will want to wish them all the best when they tie the knot on August 6.

The open maiden race was divided on the field and Moral Hazard, a seven-year-old brown gelding by Milan, ridden by John Mathias, although finishing tired, had eight lengths to spare over An Cor.

Trainer Beverley Thomas who owns the horse in partnership with Adrian Simpson said: "An old lady could ride him and I only got back into training recently by accident."

Beverley, who is the west Wales area secretary, is a former leading trainer and the last time she saddled a winner was in 2008 but clearly she has not lost her touch.

It is something of a coincidence that one of the two winning owners of the second division was the south Wales area secretary Liz Egerton, who owns the winner Mad Money in partnership with former rider Tudor Harris.

Their win came when the 10-year-old bay Mad Money, partnered by Cowbridge's Byron Moorcroft, who was chalking up his eighth winner of the season, made nearly all to score by two-and-a-half lengths from the favourite Tenant Farmer.

Mad Money is trained by Jonathan Tudor at Merthyr Mawr and joint owners Liz and Tudor were enjoying their first success as owners.

Reds romp to Cup final!

COWBRIDGE Town Reds faced Llantwit Major for the first time this season when they met in the semi-final of the Vale of Glamorgan under-12 Cup.

Given the magnitude of the game, the teams were treated to a neutral referee which was a new experience for both boys and parents alike.

A beautiful morning in Llantwit saw the Reds kicking off up the slope, but Llantwit mounted the early attacks which were ably dealt with by the Reds defence.

As the half progressed, the Reds started to impose themselves and took the lead inside 10 minutes when Craig Tapsfield finished coolly after being well played in.

This was followed swiftly by the Reds' second goal, scored by Ruben Davies from a clever through-ball from midfield.

Despite the stop-start nature of the game, both teams were trying to play football and, as the half drew to a close, two quality pieces of play from Ruben enabled him to score twice to complete his hat-trick.

However, shortly before half-time, goalkeeper Aron Kempson pulled off a great save, diving at the feet on a Llantwit forward who seemed certain to score. The half-time whistle blew with the Reds leading 4-0.

Llantwit started the second half with a series of attacks but failed to capitalise on their chances.

The Reds then turned the tables as Sam Davies opened his account to make it 5-0.

Llantwit then pulled a goal back before the Reds won a penalty when a shot from Sam was handled in the box by a Llantwit defender.

Unfortunately the crossbar proved to be slightly too low for the resulting penalty kick and the score remained the same!

The Reds' sixth goal came from Akka Guwy whose powerful left-footed shot from the edge of the box gave the Llantwit keeper no chance.

Shortly afterwards, the Reds' final goal came from Harry Treharne after good work by Sam.

However, to their credit, Llantwit fought hard to the end and scored twice in the last few minutes to make the final score 7-3 to the Reds.

This was another good test for the Reds against a competitive Llantwit team and, pleasingly, the entire match-day squad contributed to an impressive team performance.

This fine win sees the Reds progress to face Porthkerry Panthers in the final of the Cup on April 15 at Jenner Park, Barry.

Squad: Finlay Ball, Tom Collingridge, Ben Cooke, Ruben Davies, Sam Davies, Steffan Evans, Akka Guwy, Rhys Hardman, Will Harris, Aaron Holcombe, Aron Kempson, Toby Mallett, Benji Mulcahy, Craig Tapsfield, Harry Treharne.

On and Off the Turf with Brian Lee

LLANCARFAN trainer Evan Williams's six-year-old The Gipper ran out a six lengths winner of the Pertemps Network Novices' Hurdle at Chepstow on Saturday.

Ridden by Adam Wedge, the long odds-on favourite finished six lengths ahead of Venitia Williams's Bennys King.

Williams also saddled the second and third in the Tori Global And The Samaritans Handicap Chase won by bottom weighted Sandy Beach with Tornado In Milan (Paul Moloney) which finished second and the top weighted Zarzak (Adam Wedge) which finished third.

Peterston-Super-Ely's Phil Dando saw his Driftwood Haze, finish second to the Rebecca Curtis trained Kit Casey in the Tesm National Hunt Maiden Hurdle and his Rainbow Haze, a course and distance winner, took third place behind Albert D'Olivate in the Ben Crutchley Memorial Handicap hurdle.

The winner was ridden by Pembrokeshire's Sean Bowen, one of the leading riders over the course.

ISABEL'S CLEAR ROUND

When Llancarfan's Isabel Williams the 18-year-old daughter of Evan and Cath Williams rode in her first point-to-point race at the Curre & Llangibby Hunt Steeplechases at Howick, near Chepstow, on Sunday, it was a rather special moment too for myself.

I not only have had the pleasure and privilege of reporting on the many successes of Isabel's father Evan, a former national champion point-to-point rider, and now a leading trainer, but I also reported on the successes of Isabel's grandmother Mary and late grandfather Rhys, and to have been involved in the sport I love for three generations is something that I am proud of as I cannot think of any other horse racing reporter who can claim the same.

Isabel, who has also ridden in a couple of flat races, led her nine rivals a merry gallop in the ladies' open race when riding her mother's 10-year-old Sublime Talent and was still in with a chance five fences from home.

But the 10-year-old bay gelding is more suited to two-mile chases rather than three and tired in the closing stages, finishing down the field.

However, Isabel who did well to complete the course, enjoyed the experience and, no doubt, we will be hearing more from her in the future.

The race was won by William and Angela Rucker's Get It On, a horse which Evan had trained in the past to win several National Hunt races.

Get It On was ridden by Sarah Bowen, aged 23, whose father Tim from Monmouthshire was also a successful amateur rider.

TIM'S MARKET RASEN WINNER

Aberthin's Tim Vaughan landed the three miles chase at Market Rasen on Sunday with his eight-year-old Bucking The Trend, which came home 20 lengths ahead of Ultimatum Du Roy.

Bucking The Trend was partnered by Alan Johns and was returned the 13/8 joint-favourite.

WI darts event is a success!

THE annual Glamorgan Federation of Women's Institutes darts competition was held in Llanharry Workingmen's Club on February 20, and as usual this was a perfect venue for this event.

There were 14 teams of ladies from across Glamorgan and plenty of others to cheer them on.

The final this year was an exciting and close fought contest between Cwmavon WI and St Athan WI.

St Athan were the victors and congratulations go to them and all the contestants.

Everyone enjoyed the day out, whether playing, supporting or meeting friends from other institutes and no doubt the teams will soon be practicing ready for next year's competition!

Cowbridge under-10s on tournament victory roll!

COWBRIDGE RFC under-10s played in another tournament and won again. That is now three tournaments entered this year and three wins!

We were finally blessed by some beautiful sunshine and good ground conditions for the rescheduled tournament at St. Peters rugby club in Cardiff.

As with all tournaments, the squad was split into A's and development team. There were two pools of five teams in each and both our teams were drawn in the same pool. Also, we were the only club to enter two teams, so all the development team's matches would be against the A teams from other clubs so it would be a real test.

The A team was first up against a strong Rhwbina squad and got off to a good start, winning 4-0 with tries from Henry Davies, Osian Bruce and Harry New (2).

Rhwbina had a quick turn around and were back on against our development team. This as a very close game, with Joe Funtek opening the scoring, only for Rhwbina to equalise in the last few minutes of the game to draw the match 1-1.

Barry were next to face the A team who were now in their stride, playing a great expansive, fast-paced style of rugby, running out comfortable 8-0 winners, with tries from Jake Davies (2), Osian, George Tuckley, Harry (2), James Lord and Henry Davies.

The development team then played Pontyclun, who proved a little too strong, winning a lot of turnovers at the breakdown, gaining valuable possession, which they converted into tries, winning 3-1, with the consolation try being scored by Joe Davies with a fantastic weaving run from his own half.

As both teams were in the same pool, they not only the support from all the parents for every match, but also the rest of the squad, and the A team didn't like to see their friends losing to Pontylcun and were determined to set the record straight when they were next up against them.

Once again they outclassed the opposition, winning 6-0, with tries from Harry (3), Joe Artensen, Henry Whitehouse and Jake.

Having been beaten by the A team, Barry were not looking forward to playing the development team and they were proved right, as we ran out 4-0 winners with tries from L.Thomas, Paddy Whitestone and Joe Davies (2).

In a fitting final pool match, it was time for our two sides to meet, which is the first time we have played each other in a tournament setting.

The game was a joy to watch and was easily the best match played all day, with both sides turning on the style. In the end, the A team proved just too strong winning 5-0, with tries from Jake (2), Osian (2) and James Collingridge.

The score wasn't a true reflection of the game, however, as the development team pushed their A team counterparts hard, only conceding the final two tries right at the end of the match.

Once the final pool standings had been calculated, in the last games of the day each team would play the team finishing in the same position from the other pool.

The development team narrowly finished in third place on try countback and played the home team from St. Peters in the third-place play-off. They ended the day strongly and won a great game of rugby 2-1, with tries from Joe Funtek and Josh Canning.

The A team, who finished top of their pool, played Kenfig Hill in the final, who had also won all their pool matches.

The boys didn't let the much bigger and more physical Kenfig team get up any speed, with Ioan Phillips and Ned Rees putting in great work in defence.

The quick hands and well-rehearsed moves from the entire team were too much for the opposition and we ran out 4-1 winners, with tries scored by Harry (2), Osian and Joe A.

In total for the day, they scored 27 tries and only conceded a single try. Well done to all the squad.

The Bryntition netballers.

School's netballers show their skills in tournament

SATURDAY, March 5, saw the under-16 Welsh finals of the Anne Smart netball tournament, hosted in Llandrindod Wells.

The tournament saw the top eight school teams in Wales battle it out in an exhibition of exceptional netball.

Bryntirion had a stuttering start against their first opponents Ysgol Bryn Elian (Clwyd County Champions) narrowly losing 7-8 despite excellent shooting from Bryntirion's Meg Webb and Olivia Bournes.

However Bryntirion soon stepped up their game and went on demonstrate first class netball, effortlessly winning their next three games against Ysgol Uwchraad Caerinion (Powys county champions), St Josephs HS (Dyffryn county champions) and Ysgol Gyfun Bro Myrddin (Dyfed county champions).

The tournament went into the afternoon and the standard of netball seemed to be getting better and better.

Their next two games against Ysgol Gyfun Gwyr and Ysgol Gyfun Gymraeg Glantaf were always going to be their toughest opponents; although Bryntirion lost they were only one of two teams to get half score against both schools, ending 7-11 and 6-10.

After an analysis of results Bryntirion knew that they had to beat their final opponents Newbridge High School for a chance of finishing in third position. An outstanding performance from all players secured Bryntirion third place and they can now proudly say that they are the third best school team in Wales at under-16 level.

A huge thank you all the parents who made the long journey to mid-Wales and an even bigger congratulations to the players who showed discipline, strength and commitment throughout the tournament.

Vale of Glamorgan football league news round-up

IT was another weekend of league and cup action in the Vale of Glamorgan football league this past weekend.

In the big game of the weekend title rivals Wenvoe Arms and Cardiff Airport played out a 2-2 draw, Wenvoe coming back from two goals down at Station Road.

It was league leaders St Athan who benefited the most from that result, as they routed Penarth Town 9-1 to move four points clear at the top of Wenvoe and 10 points ahead of Airport, however Wenvoe have a game in hand and Airport have three in hand for what is proving an exciting title race.

Elsewhere in the Premier Division Masons Moving Group secured a 3-1 win over Island Marine while AFC Rhoose dispatched SP Construction 3-0.

In the First Division the top two teams lost with Glenbrook stunning Sully Sports 4-1, while Tynewydd made it three wins on the bounce since the enforced winter break with a 2-1 victory away at Cogan.

Tynewydd's fine form has moved them up to third and well into the race for promotion.

Meanwhile, Cardiff Airport B got back to winning ways, their 3-1 win over AFC Rhoose B their first league win in six after winning their first seven games.

FC Pumas moved up to seventh with a 2-1 win over bottom side BV.

There were only two fixtures in the Second Division this week.

St Athan B secured a big 6-1 win over rooted Cowbridge B while Barry Athletic B extended their lead at the top of the league with a 4-1 win over Penarth B.

In cup action Barry Albion made it through to the Dockers Cup final at Jenner Park after a dramatic 2-1 extra-time win over Knap FC.

They will play Dockers Reunited, who emerged victorious over Cadoxton Imps 4-2.

In the Supporters Cup Vale United made it to their third final in the VOGAFL in just their second season as they defeated Cadoxton Barry 2-1.

They await the winners of Cogan and Barry Belgrade, the latter booking their place in that semi final with a 2-0 win over Cadoxton Athletic in their rearranged quarter-final.

This week (March 19) sees the Barry Cup semi-finals as well as more league action.

Athletes face 40 mile marathon at Jenner Park this Sunday

THIS Sunday (March 20) at 10am, 14 endurance athletes from all parts of the UK will set out on the annual journey of 40 miles in Jenner Park.

Forty miles represents almost 161 laps of the track, and anyone even contemplating such a journey will have trained many thousands of miles in preparation.

However, even that distance pales into insignificance when compared to the fact that this race has now been held for 30 years.

Sunday, March 9, 1986, saw local athlete Mick McGeoch winning the inaugural race in 4:11:32 in dramatic circumstances, and Ann Franklin from Cardiff shattering four ladies world records in clocking 4:47:27. 61 world bests have been set during those 30 years, and the race is highly regarded amongst the ultra-running community.

Last year's winner, Grant Jeans from Glasgow, returns in search of a third win, but looks to face a tough challenge from Andrew Tuckey, now resident in Bridgend, but originally from Australia.

Andrew can point to some impressive performances over a variety of surfaces, including ninth place in the Western States 100 miles, and eighth in the 2013 World Trail Championships while competing for Australia.

If either Grant or Andrew should falter, then the ever-consistent Andy Gore from Cheltenham Harriers could spring a surprise.

A last minute entry has been received from Steve Way from Bournemouth AC.

Steve was due to run here last year but sadly injury intervened. In 2014 Steve demolished the UK record for 100km with 6:19:20 at Gravesend, as well as 10th place in the Commonwealth Games Marathon in Glasgow in 2:15:16, thereby setting a new UK M40 record, breaking the mark by Ron Hill which had stood for 35 years.

Although not in that form, this athlete's reputation will inevitably lead to huge interest.

Twelve months ago Isobel Wykes from Truro looked effortless in winning the ladies race, and went on to place eighth in the World 24 hour championships in Italy just five weeks later.

Hopefully Isobel will have made a speedy recovery from recent injury to make a strong bid to defend her title. However, she faces tough opposition from team mate Nicky Taylor, and Cass Chisholm from Birmingham completes an impressive looking trio.

The race also incorporates the Welsh Ultra Championship, and four of the athletes will be competing for the honour of championship medals.

As ever, there are some amazing personal stories to tell, none more so than by the oldest man in the race, 82 year old Geoff Oliver from Hinckley RC, surely the world's fittest octogenarian.

Last year Geoff set new world best marks for 30 miles, 50 kms and six hours duration for the over-80 category - and he'll no doubt be trying to better them.

Indeed, everyone has a fascinating personal tale to tell, and the event is an amazing demonstration of the indomitability of human spirit.

Thanks as always are due to many people, including Gary and Pip Hyatt for refreshments, Jenner Park groundstaff and the local council, and anyone who freely gives their time to come and support. As ever, admission for this amazing occasion is free. MICK MCGEOCH

ROETS RETURNS TO SCORPIONS

WELSH international Christiaan Roets, one of the founder players of South Wales Scorpions, has returned to the club after four years at North Wales Crusaders.

The 35-year old centre/second row has been one of Wales' most prolific players over the last seven years and is our country's second highest try scorer of all time with 13 in 21 games.

South African born, Roets came into the professional game just after he won his first full Wales cap. A shining light for Swansea Valley Miners and Bridgend Blue Bulls in the Welsh Conference from 2003-09, he won Wales Dragonhearts caps and also played twice for Celtic Crusaders reserves.

Those performances resulted in him being called up as a fringe player for the full Wales squad in 2009. He made his debut against Serbia, and impressed straight away as he scored a hat-trick of tries in Wales' 88-8 win, before scoring a further try against Scotland in Wales' 28-16 European Cup Final victory.

He has been first choice in the Wales side since then, has only missed two games (both against Italy) and has been involved in two further European trophy wins as well as playing in both the Four Nations and World Cup for Wales.

He signed for South Wales Scorpions a couple of months after his first few caps and starred in the club's first game – a 22-20 win over Workington Town in February 2010 - but after 15 tries in 41 appearances over two years, he took the opportunity to again become a founder member of a Welsh club, this being North Wales Crusaders, helping them to one promotion and two cup final wins in his time there.

Barry to host 'Swimathon'

BARRY Leisure Centre is to host Sainsbury's Swimathon 2016, the world biggest swimming event on March 18-20.

Participants can choose to take on a Swimathon set distance between 1.5k–5k, or set their own SimplySwim challenge and complete their own personal challenge in their own time.

A spokesperson from Legacy Leisure welcomed local residents to get involved as a great opportunity to kick start a new fitness goal and raise money for such fantastic causes: "Even small amounts can make a huge difference. Just £15 could provide an entire year's worth of school lunches for a child in Uganda, and here in the UK, £50 could pay for a disadvantaged young person to go on a sports coaching course, giving them the skills they need to find work.

"Join other swimmers afterwards in our dedicated Meet & Greet area to share your achievements with a warming hot chocolate & flapjack and to receive a goody bag and medal or phone 01446 403000."

Pool times: Barry, Saturday, March 19 (12pm-3pm); Sunday, March 20 (1.30pm-4.30pm).

Penarth, Saturday, March 19 (1pm-4pm); Sunday, March 20 (10pm-1pm).

Llantwit, Saturday, March 19 (2pm-5pm); Sunday, March 20 (10pm-2pm).

For further details, phone Barry Leisure Centre 01446 403000 or enter at Swimathon.org.

Colburn's brace gives Tynewydd FC the win over rivals Cogan

MEETING for the fourth time this season, Tynewydd FC went into this away day clash against high flying Cogan hoping for some revenge, having been knocked out of both cups, but beating their hosts in their earlier league fixture.

The task wasn't made any easier with numerous players missing, leading to a line-up with certain players playing out of position, most notably Julian Brana who slotted in at centre half and played like he'd played there his whole career.

Tynewydd shaded the opening phases of the game although both teams struggled with the boggy and uneven pitch which soon led to a more broken up game with numerous stoppages for free kicks and even an early substitution when Lyndon Peterson was replaced by Osbourne, making his debut for the team and instantly adding his experience to the middle of the park.

Cogan snuck in front midway through the half when one of countless free kicks found their captain who nodded home from close range. The half-time score was 1-0 to the home side with Tynewydd knowing they needed to create more to get back into the game.

Getting wingers Lloyd Union and Gareth Tinsley more involved started to provide dividends and with about 75 minutes on the clock, a tricky run into the box from Lloyd resulted in a penalty when he was upended in the box.

The Cogan keeper, to the delight of the vocal home crowd, guessed the right way and saved the penalty to keep the score at 1-0.

This only proved to spur the Tynewydd on and 10 minutes later they were awarded a second penalty for a deliberate handball in the box. Switching penalty takers, Andrew Colburn grabbed the ball and rifled the ball into the net to make it 1-1!

Sensing that Cogan were there for the taking, Tynewydd surged on for the win and amazingly with virtually the last kick of the game they grabbed all three points.

A viciously whipped-in corner from Lloyd Union was commandingly met in the air by man of the moment Andrew Colburn, who powerfully headed the ball in from the six yard box.

It was a true 'Roy of the Rovers' performance from Colburn, who was patched up from last week's game sporting 12 stitches to his cheek; man of the match was a mere formality.

All the boys at Tynewydd FC would like to dedicate this win to the memory of goalkeeper Jodie Shepherd's father, who sadly passed away this week.

Squad: J.Shepherd, L.Peterson, J.Brana, J.Clissett (c), P.Pydannah, Ll.Union, A.Colburn, G.Tinsley. L.Union, J.Williams, R.Smith, G.Osbourne, C.Marchant, G.Union, C.Coleman, C.Harding.

BARRY CHESS CLUB NEWS ROUND-UP

THIS week saw two matches being played in the East Glamorgan Chess League.

The Quarks in division 3 played promotion contenders North Cardiff Titans and later in the wek the Bosons travelled to Pontypridd to play the Barbarians.

The Quarks need to pick up at least 10 points from their remaining four games after they were defeated 3.5-1.5.

We knew we would be in for a tough game and tried to 'borrow' a couple of players who have been playing for the Camelots.

There was a quick draw for Ashley Davis on top board for his first match for some time. Defeats on boards 4 and 5 quickly followed.

Time rolled on and boards 2 and 3 were going to last the distance. Chris Green on board 2 had a difficult end game with his bishop and three pawns against Peter Slater, who had a rook and three pawns.

Both players had a passed pawn but Chris was unable to queen his pawn before Peter with the clock winding down.

So it was left to Peter Watkins to earn us another point. In a long game with seconds remaining on his clock Peter duly earned the win as Liam Penny eventually saw his flag fall as he ran out of time.

Unfortunately we dropped into the bottom three with this defeat. The Caerphilly Knights earned an impressive victory against the Penarth Piers to move level with the Quarks with a game in hand.

Our final game of the season in early May is now looking vital as we play the Rooks, who are in danger of dropping into the relegation fight.

Meanwhile, in the top division the Bosons earned a draw away to Pontypridd. This is really a dead rubber as the Barbarians have quite a margin above the bottom three.

The Bosons are stuck in third place, now 10 points behind Caerphilly Kings in second place. Another poor result and the Bosons will be looking over their shoulders at the chasing pack.

The Barry Chess Club meets at 7.30pm each Monday at the West End Club. St. Nicholas Road, Barry CF62 6QY. The club is open to players of all standards; whether you are interested in playing competitive chess or just the occasional friendly games.

New players are very welcome to just turn up on the night but if you contact one of the club members through the website we can explain what is happening on the night you have in mind, and arrange for someone to greet you on your arrival.

'Sumo squash' helps raise money for Sport Relief!

A new sport of 'Sumo Squash' has been invented in Barry to raise funds for Sport Relief.

Neighbours and squash buddies Andy Green (58) and Neil Woodward (54) of Barry Island created the new sport that combines the physique of Sumo and the exertions of squash after 21 stone Andy wanted to equalize things with his 11 stone squash partner Neil.

Neil wore a special Sumo suit, with electric fan to replicate the bulk of a classic Sumo wrestler - Andy did not require a special suit.

Despite wearing the Sumo suit Neil still managed to beat Andy three games to nil.

The pair are hoping their game changing exploits will raise valuable funds for the Sport Relief Appeal.

Anyone wanting to donate should visit their Just Giving page at https://www.justgiving.com/Andy-Green29/.

Commenting on their efforts, Andy said: "Usually when we play squash, I might win the odd game. However, he played like a man possessed to still beat me. At least he can appreciate how it is to be a squash player on the rather large side!"

Andy Green and Neil Woodward have created a new sport - Sumo Squash!

Sport Relief is a biennial charity event from Comic Relief, in association with BBC Sport, which brings together the worlds of sport and entertainment to raise money to help vulnerable people in both the UK and the world's poorest countries.

SIX NATIONS RUGBY

Picking up the pieces after the Twickenham no-show

Wales 3 England 1 – tries that is – but where was the fire-breathing Dragon?

Pictures by the Huw Evans Agency.

ABOVE: In-form George North rounds off a wonderful Welsh move that showed just what the team is capable of when given its head. TOP, centre: the outstanding Taulupe Faletau crashes over for a well-deserved try.

WALES NEED TO BRING THAT LAST 20 MINUTES TO THE HEAD OF THE QUEUE!

BACK PAGE COMMENT by Don John

IN the aftershock of a Twickenham defeat that was far more conclusive than the narrowness of the 25-21 result would suggest, the stunned Welsh camp has had little time to recover its lost pride – and at least end a disappointing Six Nations campaign on a more positive note against lowly Italy in Cardiff on Saturday.

After a bafflingly-listless first half display that, sadly, has become all too common as the Achilles heel of a hugely-talented group of players prone to sleep walking out of the blocks, and then forced to live dangerously and play catch-up rugby as time runs out (as happened again on Saturday), it was hardly surprising that a far more urgent and committed home side took full advantage.

That in a transformed last quarter, a long overdue injection of energy from the replacements bench saw Welsh players suddenly cast off their shackles and, amazingly, run in two converted tries in the space of five minutes, to add to an earlier touchdown and get within four points of victory at the death – was scant consolation, as England took the spoils for their 25th Triple Crown – the first under their new regime.

Even more concerning was Wales' head coach Warren Gatland's typically frank post-match admission that he was flummoxed by his team's strangely inept first half performance.

"It was unacceptable… but I don't know what the answer is", he said tight-lipped… "We were terrible. We just didn't turn up (for an hour). We have got to be honest and say – where was the energy? We looked tired and were not enthusiastic enough," he added somewhat surprisingly – given that the players had just spent two weeks together in camp preparing for the game.

Both the team and coaching staff would need to look at themselves, to see what had gone wrong, he said, though he intimated the fault primarily lay with players who had failed to implement the game plan correctly.

In fact, such was the Kiwi's displeasure that he had even toyed with making changes after just 25 sluggish minutes in an error-ridden first half that was marked by a rash of missed tackles (Wales would record a staggering 25 before the end), dropped passes, sloppy field kicking, and indiscipline, punished by three Owen Farrell penalties and conversion of an Anthony Watson try which gave England a commanding 16-0 lead at halftime.

When, four minutes after the restart, Farrell added a fourth penalty to make the score 19-0, a misfiring Wales, whose struggles in both the tight and loose were exacerbated by a suddenly malfunctioning lineout, were staring an unexpected defeat of epic proportions in the face.

They were given a glimmer of hope when Ospreys outside half Dan Biggar, charged down an attempted clearance by his opposite number George Ford and touched down under the posts for a try he converted himself. Wales had closed the gap to 19-7 which coincided with the departure of injured skipper Sam Warburton.

As pressure on the embattled Welsh defence was renewed, the men in white took what seemed an unassailable lead with two more well-struck penalties by Farrell to make the score 25-7, moving into the final quarter, when Gatland played his last hand with fresh legs from the substitutes' bench.

Suddenly, the men in red were transformed, shook off their lethargy and the shackles that had bound them, and finally upped the tempo, aided by a yellow card given to England prop Dan Cole just after the 70-minute mark.

Sustained assaults had a suddenly back-pedalling England defence at sixes and sevens, yielding two very well-worked tries, by George North and Taulupe Faletau in the space of four minutes.

Both were converted by outside half Rhys Priestland who, with fellow replacements Rhys Webb and hooker Ken Owens, had sparked the belated revival that incredibly brought Wales to within four points at 25-21 with just two minutes left to the final whistle.

With England now desperately clinging on to avoid a repeat of the drama last autumn, when an outplayed Wales sneaked the honours in the dying minutes of their Rugby World Cup pool game at Twickenham, there was still time for one final twist when North was controversially deemed to have had a foot in touch before passing to Webb, who could have continued the attack.

In the end, even though Wales scored three tries to England's one, the camp admitted it was, "too little, too late". Few would begrudge the 'old enemy' a deserved victory that now sets up new coach Eddie Jones to match Gatland's achievement in winning a Grand Slam at his first attempt.

Only sorry France, demolished 29-18 by Scotland, now stand in their way in Paris this weekend.

Meanwhile, Gatland will pick up the pieces and aim to prove that the first hour at Twickenham was an aberration. He hinted though at changes to come for the final game against Italy, who were crushed 58-15 by Ireland on Saturday.

The question is, will Wales' poor showing signal a renewed emphasis on the tried and tested structured approach that has brought such success – or will that final exhilarating 20 minutes underline that there is another, heads-up variation – one which produces scintillating tries that have been in such short supply of late?

A dynamic Wales under-20s team, playing at high tempo, pointed the way forward when running in six tries to blow away their English counterparts 42-16 at the weekend and set themselves up for a Grand Slam title that has eluded the seniors.

When Eddie Jones suddenly ended his self-imposed press purdah, he had insisted there were "no hang ups" in the England camp over last autumn's traumatic loss to Wales that prematurely ended the host nation's Rugby World Cup at the pool stage, and got his predecessor the sack.

Nor had the record 30-3 defeat in Cardiff in 2013, which robbed England of a Grand Slam, left any "lasting scars".

However, skipper, Dylan Hartley, admitted: "I'm sure there will be individuals who will have something going on here (tapping his head) and thinking... I'm not going to let that happen again"… But then he added, "As a team, we are not going to; that ain't happening again…"

No-one can deny that they proved the point on Saturday – but it was still a close-run thing!

The already battered Italians could now be in for a severe Gatland backlash from an under-fire team captained by Dan Lydiate – minus the injured Alun Wyn Jones and skipper Sam Warburton – with Luke Charteris, Rhys Webb, Hallam Amos and Justin Tipuric drafted in to provide more fizz.

WALES TEAM

Liam Williams; Hallam Amos, Jonathan Davies, Jamie Roberts, George North; Dan Biggar, Rhys Webb; Rob Evans, Scott Baldwin, Samson Lee, Bradley Davies, Luke Charteris, Dan Lydiate (capt), Justin Tipuric, Taulupe Faletau. Replacements: Ken Owens, Gethin Jenkins, Aaron Jarvis, Jake Ball, Ross Moriarty, Gareth Davies, Rhys Priestland, Gareth Anscombe.

ABOVE: Dan Biggar caps an individual effort after charging down George Ford's kick with a try that began the Wales fight-back.

STATE OF THE SIX NATIONS

I REFER to the Back Page Comment (on March 3) by Don John – an excellent article which comprehensively accounts for the current state of our Six Nations, and our results at the recent World Cup.

The best Six Nations in recent times has been the 2015 tournament. Results were so close on the final day that it was all about scoring points.

Leaking a few tries wasn't as important as scoring as many as possible at the other end.

What a spectacle it was!
